Our Flag Goes Abroad

It's a far cry from Hoboken to Iceland; farther still from California to that strategic, ice-bound Isle, which American troops now patrol and are pledged to hold against all aggressors. It's a long jaunt, too, from here to Trinidad and British Guiana in the Caribbean, but American troops have taken over in both places.

For better or worse, whether we believe in it or not, our Flag has gone abroad, with United States muskets to defend it. It is not our purpose, in this editorial, to argue the merits of the case; the deed has been done; the Rubicon has been crossed.

We have dispatched men of the Navy to the frozen north, and men of the army to the tropical south—assented to prevent Nazi encirclement of the United States. And no matter what we may think about it, this is the most momentous military decision this nation has made since the first World War. Translated, these moves mean that we are no longer on the defensive; we have taken the offensive against the German Reich.

Realistically, perhaps that is the right thing to do; certainly, every nation which has waited for Hitler to move first has lived to regret it. If we must fight, as many of our most dependable observers now believe, then, at least, we should be in position to keep the fight from our own shores; we should anticipate Hitler's moves and check-mate them. If Hitler has no plans for world conquest, then we are assuredly wrong, for we are invading his hemisphere and asking for trouble. Whether we have done the right thing or the wrong thing—that's all a matter of "if." The fact remains we have done it. That's something to chew over.

UP ON SERGEANT

CAMP WOLTERS, Tex.—(U. P.)—Pvt. Richard A. Litton is glad he can speak 29 foreign languages and dialects. It is not only a help to the army, he says, but enables him to "cuss the sergeant in 29 different languages."

Hawthorne Rescinds Civil Service Law

The Hawthorne city council after prolonged debate Monday night rescinded a civil service ordinance enacted last June 9. Miss Helen Schine, city clerk, announced that a petition circulated by the Hawthorne Progressive League, opposing the ordinance, was sufficient.

Members of the police and fire departments of Hawthorne have been under civil service and the ordinance provided that virtually all other city workers be placed under the act.

Local residents who are planning to re-decorate this Spring may now borrow a huge decorating guide which shows hundreds of America's most beautiful rooms and homes in their actual colors, according to the Torrance Paint and Wallpaper Company at Sartori and Post avenues, local distributor of Sherwin-Williams paints. The guide, which has pages over two square feet in area, contains color-photos of scores of beautifully-painted living-rooms, dining-rooms, kitchens, bed-rooms, and playrooms, as well as dozens of color-styled home exteriors.

Compiled by the color-experts of Sherwin-Williams, nationally-known paint manufacturers, the decorating guide is called the "World's Largest Color Book," and was designed to show, before the actual painting, how a given color-scheme will look in a given room. The local paint firm will lend the guide to local residents at no cost, so that they may learn at leisure how the magic color can transform their own rooms and homes.

The huge color-portfolio is said to show how paint colors can make kitchens seem cooler, bathrooms warmer, dens cozy, living rooms restful, dining rooms formal, play rooms gay. Such emotional effects of color can be easily achieved, the experts say, and can now be judged in advance in the pages of the new guide.
