

Supreme Court To Decide Number of Sept. 10 Candidates

for them to run as candidates to succeed themselves.

Decision Will Spur Action
Highlights in the Steele petition, which the Supreme Court referred to as "good cause" for its action are: (1) that the Election Code required nomination papers to be filed "not later than 12 o'clock noon on the 31st day before election." That the 31st day prior to the election day on Sept. 10 was a Sunday, and that Bartlett accepted the nomination petitions of the six candidates in question on Monday, Aug. 11; (2) that, according to decisions of the District Court of Appeal and Supreme Court of the laws of the State of California do not permit the enforcement to appear before the court next Tuesday morning to argue the case.

Clerk Bartlett permitted the names of the six candidates to be filed on advice of City Attorney John C. McCall, who is expected to appear before the court next Tuesday morning to argue the case.

Because of the uncertainty as to who will be in the race, the campaign has lagged during the past week, but there is every indication that as soon as the matter is settled next Tuesday, the final week before the election will see much action.

State Health Board May Put Beach Under Quarantine for Pollution

us 20 years to live it down." Reah admitted knowing that several beaches were contaminated but asserted he had not heard of any persons reporting sick from pollution. That was answered by Dr. John Ruddock, vice-president of the city Board of Health Commissioners, who asserted that many times hot dogs or hamburgers eaten at the beach are blamed for illnesses which arise from contamination picked up on polluted sands.

Complete cooperation with the state board of health was pledged on behalf of the county by Dr. Oscar Haug, member of the Board of Supervisors, and for the city of Los Angeles.

Misses Mary and Ruth Lybrook of Huntington Park visited at the home of the Misses Rosa and Katherine Ortman on Monday evening.

Slayer's Body Found in Harbor City Field

In a thick growth of corn less than two blocks from the Harbor City home of Mrs. Mary Baroldi, who was shot and killed by her former husband July 29, the body of the slayer, John Trentini, 48-year-old longshoreman, was discovered on Monday morning. The finding ended the mystery of the disappearance of the killer of the 42-year-old woman.

The body was found by Louis Dallape, 25124 Broadwell, at the rear of his home and that of his son-in-law, Haskell Tidwell. Dallape was irrigating the corn when he sighted the remains. Mrs. Baroldi, wife of Salvio Baroldi, was Mrs. Tidwell's aunt. Mrs. Tidwell gave a blood transfusion to the mortally wounded woman at San Pedro hospital in a fruitless effort to save Mrs. Baroldi's life.

Under Trentini's badly decomposed body, Los Angeles detectives found a snub-nosed .38-caliber revolver, ostensibly used in the slaying and subsequent suicide. Tidwell reported he and Los Angeles officers had gone thru the cornfield in search of Trentini after Baroldi was shot. Identity of the San Pedro woman who accompanied Trentini to the Baroldi home on the day of the shooting has not been revealed as police assert she was not involved in the case. She drove rapidly away following the gun shots. Police said no inquest would be held and they believe the case is now closed. Mrs. Baroldi told police before she succumbed that she and her former husband had quarreled for years over a property settlement. Trentini drove to the Baroldi home the day of the shooting and was last seen standing on the street in front of the house. Mrs. Baroldi ran screaming to the home of a neighbor and collapsed.

SAVING TIRE WEAR

Tire wear can be kept to a minimum if tires are checked for air pressure at least once a week, even though they may look all right. Over-inflation causes excessive wear at the center of the tread. Under-inflated tires usually wear at the sides.

Residents Urge Council to Ban Condemned House

In calling the city council's attention to the efforts being made by the owner to restore a burned out and subsequently condemned dwelling at 1518 1/2 Crenshaw blvd., 17 residents in the vicinity petitioned the municipal board Tuesday night to take definite action that will remove the structure as a place of human habitation.

The petition was supplemented by four postcard requests to abate the building which does not conform to existing standards. The petition was filed by City Attorney John McCall informed the council that a new law, passed the last session of the Legislature, provides "ways and means for abolishing buildings declared unfit for habitation and dangerous to the community."

This law, the attorney said, goes into effect in a few days and he said he would seek copies at once to see if it can be applied to the Crenshaw blvd. structure.

The owner of the building, a woman, is reported making piece-meal repairs to the fire damaged structure with a view to occupying it. City Engineer Glenn Jain said that no request has been made at his office for a building permit but none would be needed where the work costs less than $50. "The matter is out of my hands," he said. "We don't know where we stand on the matter and I don't believe we can do anything about it."

The staple food of most of Afghanistan's population is fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Casullo are vacationing in the vicinity of Salt Lake City and Bonneville Salt Flats. Casullo is due back to his duties as police officer here September 1.
