Coast Guard Reserve Needs Men for Harbor

The U. S. Coast Guard Reserve is in urgent need of men having either mechanical knowledge, skill as carpenters, typists and those who can write short-hand. These men will be used to maintain and operate small craft used in patrol work in the San Pedro harbor area.

Requirements for mechanics will be that they are able to overhaul and repair gasoline engines of all types up to 600 horsepower. The carpenters must be able to repair the hulls of boats. Stenographers must be able to type well. If able to take dictation they will receive a larger monthly salary.

These men will be attached to the San Pedro Coast Guard base where they will remain until the national emergency is non-existent. The salaries will be in accordance with the men's ability. Salaries range from $36 a month plus $1.35 a day subsistence, to $84 a month plus $2.25 a day subsistence. Those interested should call at the San Pedro Coast Guard base, in Watchhorn Basin, phone San Pedro 2796 and 2796.

Charts of coastal waters are prepared and printed by the department of commerce.

Technocracy Speaker

ARCH MALIN

"America's Strength" — Can you analyze it? What makes America strong? Is it our natural resources? Our installed equipment? Our personnel to operate the equipment? The intelligence of American citizens? According to K. P. Cates, director of Torrance Technocracy, these, as well as many other pertinent questions will be answered by Arch Malin of Technocracy Inc., when he speaks at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles, Sunday, Sept. 23, 2:45 p. m. Tickets may be obtained at Section Headquarters, 1915 West Carson st.

Have You Read?

"TIME NO LONGER" By Max Reiner With the market flooded with "Hitler" books, we are becoming a little more cautious in selecting one to read. However, when Max Reiner wrote "Time No Longer," he need have had no worry about insufficient audience.

Here is a story of Karl and Kurt Ehrlich, and of the ruin of their Germany. A rather sinister note is struck as the novel opens, when Karl is hurrying to the side of his adopted brother, Eric, a Jew. The rush is due to his anticipation in opening a box of relics that Eric has brought with him from Africa.

Kurt, who is a strong party member, prevents the marriage of his sister, Gerda, and his adopted brother, Eric, the "non-Aryan." The results of this drastic step drive Karl insane.

Karl, who is strictly "unHitlerish," cannot believe that the persecution of the Jews is the actuality, but the death of two members of his family, both innocent, brings actuality vividly before him.

And so during this period of mental derangement, Karl turns to the voodooism of the little "trinkets" that Eric had in his box. These devil-dolls become weirdly significant while in the hands of maniacal Karl. They destroy the destroyer.

While Karl is in this world of his own, his wife sees little of him, and hears only his frantic pacing in the upstairs rooms. She is experiencing the horrors of the time within her own circle of friends. Horrors of the Hitler regime, flouted in her face, main the pacific existence and lives of General von Heyliger, Dr. Traub, Dr. Muehler, and Wilhelm.

The interlarding of the Aryan, non-Aryan campaign, of the relationship of two brothers of different beliefs, and the fiendish effect of some tiny wooden dolls from Africa from a story that is a story!

Max Reiner's style is such that the reader feels an actuality, a vividness that is seldom achieved in novels. He gives a picture of a country and a people in dire need of help, for which there is "Time No Longer."

Those of you who insist on mysteries might try Max Long's latest, "Death Goes Native." I found "Not With My Heart," by Sarah-Elizabeth Rodger, a

Stripped Car Found Burning In P. V. Hills

Advised that a fire was burning in a vacant field in the Palos Verdes hills, the Lucas Patrol made a run late Sunday night to find a car on fire in a gully west of the Rolling Hills gatehouse.

The car, a 1935 Ford coupe, had been partly stripped and was burning fiercely when the officers arrived. Evidently, if someone had stolen it to strip it, he had been scared away before finishing the job and fired the car to try to prevent identification.

This is the second car the officers have found catfished in the hills, stripped and burned. The cars are taken to garages or land where there are high weeds before being set afire.

rather run-of-the-mill story of marital difficulties of cafe society. For light romantic reading though, its not bad.

That was a successful job of camouflage done on the presidential yacht, so far as the news gatherers are concerned.

Letters to Editor

CROSSING GUARDS Editor, Torrance Herald, Dear Sir:

The greater Los Angeles Safety Council, 10th District P.T.A., members of the First District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, and committees composed of representatives of government, parents, educators and safety officials are unalterably opposed to boy crossing guards and wholeheartedly support adult personnel.

Sixth class cities are urged by the Board of Supervisors to find their own solution to this problem and though Torrance still lacks sufficient crossing-guards it behooves parents of school children and the Torrance P.T.A. to give a word of praise to the city council, police department or whoever is responsible for their choice. The women chosen are of fine appearance, capable, efficient and alert at all times. And we operators of motor vehicles should cooperate with them to the fullest extent because there is nothing more valuable than human life. Torrance is indeed fortunate in securing the services of these fine women for such a small remuneration.

Comparison can be drawn with surrounding communities to the credit of Torrance. (Signed) MRS. MARGARET M. O'TOOLE.

Army's brass needs are so great that there is doubt whether they will ever be filled. Maybe we could cut down somewhere on brass hats.

According to the bureau of the census, Yoakum County, Texas, made the fastest growth of any county between 1930 and 1940 with a 323.0 per cent increase. Petroleum County, Montana, made the most rapid decline, 47 per cent.

If the Nazis are driving for Vladivostok, they must be discouraged by the sign posts showing four or five thousand miles yet to go.

Regular Use of Civic Aud Denied Recreation Club

A request for the use of the Civic Auditorium each Tuesday night for about a year was made of the city council Tuesday evening by Mrs. M. E. Attebery, chairman of the Mynour Recreation Club. After Mayor Tom McGuire stated that it was the "council's policy not to allow the use of city buildings to any one person or group for any particular length of time," the request was denied by a four-to-one vote, Councilman George V. Powell dissenting.

Powell contended the council had "established a precedent of letting one organization to have it rent free and the same consideration should be given all other organizations." He was apparently referring to the Torrance Coordinating Council's use of the Auditorium every Friday night for student dances.

Week's Building Here Confined to Home Improvements

Additions and alterations to existing buildings composed all of the new building started here during the past week, it was learned from a survey of the building permits, issued from the city engineer's office. Those taking out permits were:

- 1. AROUND CHIMNEY use asbestos fibre roof cement, also on drains and outlets.
- 2. PAPER ROOFS — mop laps with plain roof cement or mop whole roof — buy in five cent lot, lots and save.
- 3. SHINGLE ROOFS — use heavy body roof paint to fill the weather cracks you can't find, will improve appearance.
- 4. REPLACE with NEW ROOFING any sections of roof that may rot fast the winter.

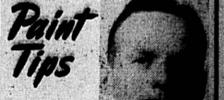

BOY: It's sure terrible to wake up in the middle of the night hearing rain and WISH you had fixed that roof.

Owner Recovers Horse at Pound

The story in last week's Herald about the lost horse being held at the South Bay Humane Society's pound was read by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Falla of South Figueroa st. From the description given, they recognized the pet of their son who had raised the animal and was deeply attached to it.

The Fallas and son went at once to the pound at 20362 Earl st., in Redondo Beach and claimed the horse.
