

Car Conservation Is Vital as Autos Being Forced Into Storage

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. C. Monte.

California motorists—at the average rate of better than one a minute—are storing their automobiles for the duration because of worn-out tires. With the continuance of "driving as usual" practices, one out of every five Torrance and Long Beach automobiles, recognized as vitally instrumental in this state's economic structure, will be off the highways by the end of October, 1942.

This amazing picture of the problem threatening to disrupt the transportation of the state has been revealed in data compiled from reliable estimates.

Geared to prevent the breakdown of California's transportation facilities, a state-wide, five-point "Drive for Victory" motor vehicle conservation program is being launched this week. The California motorist, as his important contribution to the all-out car saving campaign on the home front, is asked:

1. To drive voluntarily under 40 miles an hour as requested by President Roosevelt.
2. To set up a strict personal mileage budget, curtailing all unnecessary driving.
3. To share business driving with friends, neighbors or fellow employees on a turn-about basis.
4. To have his automobile and tires thoroughly inspected regularly by competent mechanics to assure maximum life.
5. To cooperate in the wartime program of staggered, business hours to relieve overloads on available mass transportation facilities.

Some 40,000 American trucks were sent overseas during the first World War, 38,000 going to France.

Three Autos City's Ration For Month

If you are among the eligible people you can get a new car this month.

Three new passenger autos have been allotted to the Torrance district, it was learned yesterday from the local tire rationing board at the city hall.

But you've got to prove your eligibility before you'll get a chance to "make monthly payments" again.

The local tire board also received notice that it may dispense 20 new passenger tires, 40 re-treads, 30 tubes, 20 new truck or bus tires, 19 truck or bus re-treads and 19 truck or bus tubes during the month of April to qualified consumers.

Slang Words Stay Long In Language, Says Authority

LOS ANGELES.—"Words die hard. They remain in more or less use long after being declared obsolete, and often surprise the world by coming back into fashion."

Adds Dr. William Matthews: "The Oxford Dictionary has removed the obsolete sign from a large number of words during the last few years. The present war is already picking up terms from World War I."

Dr. Matthews declared that word usage is largely determined by the familiarity of the thing named. If we come to eat less canned food the word "can" will naturally become less common. Asked to name some word which might be growing obsolete, Dr. Matthews ventured: "Tire."

To indicate the longevity of slang, he cited from the Shakespeare period: duds, lam, guy and pinch, all used in the same sense then as now; poney, spelled poney in the 17th century; and, still in use in England after three centuries, mull, broad and beak, the latter meaning a judge.

The notion that slang is a passing thing is wrong, says Dr. Matthews, since most of the words remain, some going in and out of fashion more than once. "The losses don't balance the gains. Therefore, language continues to increase its resources."
