

Archery Target Range Set up on Cabrillo Ave.

At the last meeting of the city council of Torrance a petition signed by Ralph H. Montague and 20 others requested purchase of several acres of hay for use of the Torrance Archery club, which was given permission to establish a practice range in the 2500 block on Cabrillo ave. The matter was turned over to Dale Riley, recreation commissioner, for action. Riley advises that the target huts have been erected.

More than 25 adult archers and a like number of boys attended an informal shoot last Sunday. A few feminine marksmen also were present and as soon as they are organized, expect to offer stiff competition to the men and boys.

The range is available at all times with informal shoots on Sundays, it was stated.

Fourteen Qualify For "Third Army" Ice Carnival Tickets

Fourteen retail clerks and other individual salesmen and saleswomen, all members of the "Third Army" in the Fourth War Loan drive, sold $2,000 or more worth of bonds and have qualified for free tickets to what is described as the "biggest ice event ever staged in the west" at the Westwood Ice Bowl, Westwood Village, next Saturday night, according to reports released by Hillman R. Lee, chairman of the Torrance war finance committee.

The event is being staged by the Signal Oil Company as host and is sponsored by the Los Angeles Downtown Businessmen's Association in cooperation with the war finance committee of the U. S. Treasury Department.

An address will be made by Leo Carrillo, noted film actor, which will be followed by a spectacular ice carnival in which professional ice skaters will appear. There will also be an ice hockey game and the 360th Army Infantry band will supply the music.

Veterinarian Outsmarts Movie Chimpanzee Actor

Dr. R. R. Smith, veterinarian who recently located in Torrance with offices on Carson st., was called to Hollywood last Sunday for an unusual job. He extracted four teeth belonging to a familiar character in the movies, Andy Colimo, a heretofore good natured chimpanzee transported from the jungles to join the movie colony.

Andy's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Del Graham, although they had never had any trouble with Andy in the past, just didn't like the looks of the menacing fangs he carried around on display. They feared he might "go native" and do serious damage. So they called in Dr. Smith.

It took quite a lot of scheming to get him under an anesthetic. When Dr. Smith appeared on the scene with a syringe, Andy became suspicious and grabbed it from his hand. He then ran to a corner and flung it back in Dr. Smith's face.

The animal just had to be put to sleep and since Andy was known to be fond of soft drinks the technique of "doping" his coke seemed to work where nothing else would.

When Andy became so groggy that he had lost much of his strength, the veterinarian gave him a "shot" from the injection syringe and the "actor" was soon lost to the world.

The fangs were pulled with horse forceps. Each tooth was about 2 1/2 inches in length, Dr. Smith said. It took nearly two hours to get everything under control and complete the job. Andy woke up after everything was over, but Dr. Smith was outside his pen. The operation was a painless one to the animal because of the drug.

Business Firms Keep Open February 22

Bonelli Scores Parents for Child Neglect

"Juvenile drinking is the first step leading to family sorrow and disgrace. I earnestly ask parents to help protect their children by informing them no one under 21 can legally purchase or drink liquor and warning them of the penalties to do so," urged William G. Bonelli, 4th district member of the State Board of Equalization, this week and called attention to five recent cases involving sales to ten minors who appeared on the board's Los Angeles docket.

"One of these minors is a 15-year-old girl," Bonelli said. "Of the others, four are 17, four are 18 and one is 20."

"Recently schools in my district were informed of the law forbidding purchase or consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors and the information passed on to students. Signs quoting the law are conspicuous in all licensed premises. There is no excuse for ignorance of the provisions."

"Liquor control officers and local police keep close watch and the great majority of licenses do their utmost to avoid violation of the law."

"The weak spot in reducing this heavy contributor to juvenile delinquency appears in the evidence of lack of parental supervision. Some don't know and others don't care where their children are at night or who accompanies them."

The Los Angeles playground and recreation commission disclosed today that five bids for construction of a 500-foot long rock seawall at Cabrillo beach may be rejected on grounds they are in excess of an estimated cost of the work of $10,000.

Aptitude Tests At T.H.S. for V-12 Program

The third Army-Navy college qualifying test for the Army specialized training program and the Navy college program V-12, which will be given throughout the country Wednesday, March 15, at 9 a.m., will be administered at the Torrance High school, Harold E. Perry, principal, announced today. A leaflet of general information which contains an admission-identification form, may be obtained at the high school. This form, properly filled out, will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21 inclusive who are high school graduates or who will be graduated by July 1, 1944. Intent to take the test should be made known immediately to Principal Perry in order that the necessary test supplies may be ordered.

The same examination will be taken by both Army and Navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The Army specialized training program is aimed to meet the Army's needs for specialists and technicians in certain critical fields of study. Academic work is at the college level at government expense.

The Navy college program also enables students to continue academic training at government expense. Successful completion of the prescribed courses may, following further officer training, lead to a commission in the Navy.

Salvage Center For War Front Scrap Functions

Handling of the increasing volume of overseas scrap and salvage items coming through the Los Angeles Port of Embarkation has been facilitated by the new Salvage Segregating Center, recently set in operation at South Gate. This material now can be removed from the piers in a shorter time, since segregation at the port is no longer necessary. In this way the docks are kept clear for out-bound cargoes. At the center the items are carefully sorted, that which can be reclaimed being sent to repair depots while the residual scrap is sold to scrap dealers.

Sale of this waste material of no further use has brought the government millions of dollars. Maj. Gen. David McCoach, Jr., commanding general of the Ninth Service Command, has announced from his headquarters at Fort Douglas, Utah, that sale of scrap collected at LAPE and other installations of his command amounted to $1,553,925.94 for the six-month period ending Dec. 31, 1942.

The largest return was from the sale of ferrous metals, followed by kitchen wastes and wool textiles. This sum of money does not include the savings effected through salvage, repair and reclamation, which amounts to a far larger figure. The two figures added together present a sizable saving for Uncle Sam effected by the Ninth Service Command.

RICE IN WAREHOUSES

Stocks of rough rice in California country warehouses and mills totaled 4,916,000 bags on Jan. 1, compared with 4,207,000 a year ago, the state crop and livestock reporting service announced.

Before the establishment of the salvage segregating center the port had to handle the sorting the best way it could, with a consequent strain on its facilities which was increasing with the growth of inbound scrap shipments. This problem has been answered by the South Gate project.

Had Dependent

The draft just caught up with Edward M. Sheridan, 28, who has rated a deferment for the last two years, because he listed his horse, "Mary Ann Sheridan," as a dependent. The horse kept Sheridan out of the Army because the draft board thought she was two-legged instead of four.

Here we tell you about some good ideas thought up by the people of our railroad to help Southern Pacific carry its greatest traffic load in history. Such ideas contribute directly to Victory, because the railroad is the war industry all other war industries depend on!

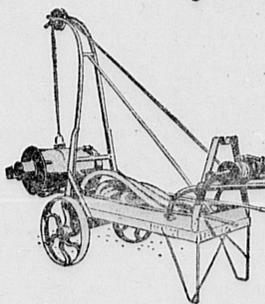

Only a few of the ideas received in recent months are presented here. And some of the devices shown can be fully appreciated only by railroaders. But these ideas have a common denominator everybody will understand: All represent better ways to run a railroad!

Back in the 1860's our railroad itself was a new idea. The first Southern Pacific tracks were built largely into virgin, sparsely settled regions where great cities later grew.

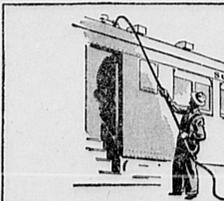

And through the years the S.P. "family" has steadily pioneered such new ideas in railroading as low coach fares; moderately priced meal service in dining cars; and store-door pickup and delivery for less than carload freight. We operate more air-conditioned cars than any railroad west of the Mississippi. Even today, in wartime, our hard-pressed streamliners are still the nation's most beautiful trains.

You can be sure that S.P. men and women in the shops, yards, offices, stores and on the trains will continue their constant search for improved methods of railroading.

In this spirit of enterprise we find stimulation and encouragement for the future. Then, as now, good railroad transportation will be needed. . . and we know that railroaders with their thinking caps on will do their part to provide it. S.P. is planning for peacetime progress NOW!

THESE FOUR MEN worked out a horizontal airjack which eases delay to flat cars and manpower in blocking of flat cars into rigid units for loading with long piping. S.P. District Car Service Agent J. E. Whalley of Eugene (third from left) conceived the idea. Car Foreman W. H. McAllister (left) built first working model. W. E. Jackson drew blueprints for another at Eugene, where Master Car Repairer W. B. Modill (right) produced a second working model. Device improves on manually operated track jacks used for same purpose.

Watering of passenger cars has been simplified by specially-shaped extension pipe suggested by General Car Foreman C. H. D. Hansen of S.P.'s Mission Road Coach Yard. Method eliminates ladder and need to climb up on top of car to fill water tank.

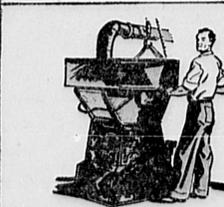

Two hours time daily is saved by this device developed by S.P. Machinist Dow Nichols of Bakerfield. His idea involves a centering attachment for driving box boring mill. Machinists see this as a valuable contribution to good workmanship.

To extract journal bearings more easily and minimize danger of accidents, E. P. Morgan, S.P. Electric Welder of the Los Angeles Car Department, worked out this ingenious and specialized tool.

Ideas for improved production of brake shoes which saves 156,000 pounds yearly of critical metal formerly scrapped was suggested by Charles Walls, General Foreman of S.P. Blacksmiths at the Sacramento Shops.

Increased reclamation of war-vital zinc from used batteries, now S.P.'s only source of zinc, is made possible by idea of Wayne Ramsey, Reclamation and Welding Foreman at Sacramento General Stores. By Ramsey's method, adapting the hammermill, 400 pounds of zinc are produced daily against 100 pounds by former method. Hammermill rips open zinc covering and breaks up carbon. Zinc pieces and crushed carbon are run through tumbler where carbon falls through perforations while zinc remains behind.

Greater accuracy, with saving of time and effort, is made possible by jigs developed by S.P. Machinist Earl Ekenberg at Los Angeles Shops. Jigs center alternator and pump motor heads for boring and fitting bushings.

Issuing train tickets to the public is speeded by this stockroom holder for ticket forms devised by Bob Steinbach, S.P. Ticket Clerk. Tickets hang from spindles, in logical order, permitting quick identification and handling.

To keep passengers posted as dining car seats become available, reducing wait time waiting-in-line, Conductor E. M. Benson suggested announcements over loudspeakers on S.P. Daylights. Our Conductors often contribute ideas.
