Gas Stickers On Cars Not Necessary

"Wartime honored" A, B, and C gasoline stickers passed into history Monday when the windshield markers will no longer be required by OPA regulations. The requirement was cancelled simultaneously with the effective date of the new gasoline rationing rules allowing certain B ration users an increase from 400 to 650 miles per month. Only motorists whose occupational driving needs exceed the present B ceiling will be eligible for increases, and while the amounts of additional fuel granted will vary according to need, the total will in no case exceed the new ceiling, the official pointed out.

Other B ration holders, such as home-to-work drivers should not apply as their applications will have to be rejected. Applicants should mail their filled out application forms rather than take them to their boards as receipt of applications by mail will speed the return of the coupons.

Striped Bass Sportsmen Owe All to Marks

Sportsmen in California who enjoy striped bass fishing owe a debt of gratitude for their sport to Emmet L. Marks of Old Forge, New York state, for it was this man, who 63 years ago, brought the second planting of striped bass to California.

In 1882 Marks accompanied a shipment of 300 striped bass from Shrewsbury River, N. J., to California for planting in suitable waters. The records of the division of fish and game show that in 1941 over 111,000 anglers fished for striped bass in the general vicinity of Suisun Bay where this first shipment of fish was introduced, and that they took approximately 2,035,000 striped bass, all over 12 inches in length.

Marks recently celebrated his 89th birthday, and no doubt he reviews this particular bit of work with a feeling of satisfaction. Certainly the people of California and sportsmen in particular have a deep appreciation for the part he played in the early introduction of the striped bass into this state.

Butyl Synthetic Rubber to Affect Tire Industry

Butyl synthetic rubber, easily produced from a plentiful supply of raw materials, may have a revolutionary effect on the tire building industry according to G. R. McNear, Pacific Coast Tire Manager of the United States Rubber Company which operates a synthetic rubber plant in Torrance.

Long ignored by rubber engineers in their preoccupation with other synthetic rubbers, they finally turned to it in a desperate effort to find some adequate substitute for natural rubber in making inner tubes. It was only after GRS, the favored type of synthetic rubber, was found unsatisfactory that intensive experiments were made on tubes made from Butyl.

McNear said the result has been a tube which gives better all-around performance than the prewar natural rubber type. Butyl tubes hold air three times as long as rubber, and are three times as tear resistant.

In one of the many comparative tests, a Butyl and a natural rubber tube were punctured by nails, and the car upon which they were placed run ninety-one miles. At that point the rubber tube was flat while the Butyl tube still held 25 pounds air pressure.

"With these important points of superiority, undoubtedly Butyl will be generally used in inner tube manufacture after the war," McNear said.

County Cost Up $7.19 Per Capita In Past 10 Years

Los Angeles county's expenditures for general county government for 1943-44 averaged $26.34 for each person in the county, compared with average expenditure of $24.52 per person for 1942-43 and $19.15 per person for 1934-35, ten years earlier, California taxpayers' association said today, making public its study of "Ten Years of County Spending."

Expenditures of the county for 1943-44 were as follows: general government, $3.11 per capita; protection to persons and property, $1.93; health and sanitation, $0.84; highways and bridges, $1.83; charities and corrections, $1.78; recreation, education and miscellaneous, $0.88; and debt payments, $0.16 per capita.

Over the state as a whole, county expenditures for 1943-44 averaged $26.70 per capita, compared with $23.33 for 1942-43, and $18.03 for 1934-35, the association found. State-wide average expenditures for 1943-44 by functions were as follows: general government, $3.12; protection to persons and property, $2.17; health and sanitation, $0.75; highways and bridges,

$2.37; charities and corrections, $1.63; recreation, education and miscellaneous, $0.90; and debt payments, $0.46.

"Loss of county employees to war services and decreasing welfare needs should have brought county expenditures down," the association said. "However, in many communities generous war bonuses and increases in pay have wiped out the savings due to reduced numbers of personnel."

"Further pay rises, expansion of welfare provisions and plans for postwar construction, if adopted, will be the major reasons why local budgets may go up for 1945-46. Taxpayers should keep cause and effect foremost in their thinking on local budgets," the association declared. "More spending will mean higher local taxes."

Redondo Beach Sand Restoration Asked in Bill

Assembly Bill No. 440, introduced by Assemblyman Glenn M. Anderson, which appropriates $100,000 to be spent in restoring the public beach at Redondo Beach has now passed the Assembly and has been referred to the Senate Committee on Finance.

This measure was requested by the City of Redondo Beach, and if passed by the Senate and signed by the Governor, should go a long way toward straightening out the beach erosion problem at Redondo Beach. Anderson has requested an early hearing in the Senate Committee and those interested should write their Senator and urge his support.

Assembly Bill No. 55, also by Anderson, received the approval of the Assembly this last Friday. This measure extends the expiration date of the 1943 appropriation of $30,000 that is to be used on the same project at Redondo Beach.

If both of these measures become law, then with the assistance of the County and local citizenry in securing the necessary matching funds, Redondo Beach should be well over the hump in solving its beach problems.

Article Sent Here Tells of Atrocities

Robert C. (Red) Justice, of 1152 Maple st., Torrance, recently sent to his wife an article by Wade Jones, in which many of the German atrocities were revealed.

"The American troops rode herd on 200 Gardelegen male civilians who, at the order of American military authorities, were forced to exhume with their hands the bodies of some 700 PW's (prisoners of war) executed by Nazi troops just outside this town April 14.

"The Yank guards fingering their triggers and barely able to fight down an obvious urge, were thoroughly angered and revolted. If a worker halted for a single second, he was forcibly reminded by some of the German-speaking guards just what the score was, and why they were there."

"One man who spoke English protested this punishment to which Pfc. Walter Postigan, of Detroit, shouted, "Shut up and get digging. You're all responsible."
