The corrected maps also will be made available to the engineer's office and fire department.

Full Calendar Planned By Tartar Seniors

With commencement drawing near, Senior A's at Torrance high are busy with many activities.

Kid Day is the first on the calendar. Torrance citizens will be much surprised to see Seniors skipping to school with all day suckers, the girls in short dresses carrying their dolls and toys and the boys complete with freckles, short pants, and sling shots. Noon will find them playing ring-around-a-rosy and jacks. Homeroom teachers will be appearing in hair bows with a supply of suckers.

Seniors responsible for Kid Day are Norman Baker, Doug Bodner, June Johnstone, Nellie Gray, Virginia Dykes, Bill McLeod, Ramona Watkins, and Iris Lee.

Senior breakfast plans are organized with decorations planned to follow a musical theme. The committee in charge consists of Dick Wimberly, Vivian Oliver, Mary Crawford, Dorothy O'Brien, Jeannette Probert, Doris Gunguin, Charlotte Ellis, and Doreen Hutton. The menu is being determined by Margaret Hetrick, Eugene Held, and Violet Thompson. The Woman's Club has arranged to prepare and serve the meal in their club house. The program committee is Jo Sles, Mary Olive Jones, Joan Purrell, and Iglis Severin. The teacher sponsor is Miss Marguerite Jones.

The commencement program has been planned by LeRoy Wright, Naomi Edwards, Bill Jackson, Garry Eason, Bill Stanley, and Shirley Rosetter. Mrs. Edith Kelly is general faculty chairman.

THE PERFECT BARBECUE PIT . . . Built of Arizona flagstone and wallstone, this barbecue pit is beautiful in appearance, but perhaps the most notable feature is its complete equipment, making it unnecessary to go into the house for anything during a barbecue supper. It is part of the Post War House on Wilshire Boulevard at Highland avenue in Los Angeles built by the Fritz B. Burns Research Division. On the left is the gas refrigerator, next is the sink with hot and cold water. Below is storage space for food, dishes, silverware, etc. The charcoal broiler, oven, and grill facilitate the preparation of tasty meat dishes. The electric spit slowly rotates until the chicken or meat is done to a turn. The floor is colored cement; the pergola overhead lends attractiveness to the barbecue pit as does the fireplace and the ledge for flowers and ornaments. An outdoor radio provides music; the inter-communication system connects the barbecue pit with the kitchen just in case something is wanted.

Sash, Door Price Gains Are Allowed

An average increase of 23 per cent over present ceiling prices for stock millwork made from lumber was announced today by OPA.

The increased prices, effective immediately, will be passed on to consumers by the actual dollar-and-cent amounts of the increase to resellers. However, a study of the ability of resellers to absorb some of the increase is being made now by OPA. All the advances permitted in today's action will be reviewed after sufficient data on operations become available.

An additional increase of 3 1/2 per cent was given to the 22 percent increase on the maximum price of the frames. This action, after consultation with the stock millwork industry advisory committee, was taken to encourage production of what in normal times is a low-end item.

Other increases authorized in today's move are as follows:—open sash, 24 1/4 per cent—doors with plywood panels, 25 per cent—doors with raised panels, 22 per cent—glazed sash, 15.75 per cent—combination doors, 22 per cent—window screens, 20 1/2 per cent—other items, including specialties, 22 per cent.

The new price level for stock millwork represents a raise of approximately 26 per cent over March 1942 levels. The prices of stock millwork were raised only once since they were brought under price control. At that time, in September 1943, OPA granted a three per cent boost.

Substantial cost increases in material prices and in wage rates, and the important role of the products in the National Housing Program, were the chief factors for today's action.

OPA's decision to base the increased prices on cost increases alone was made because of these building materials. Other financial data usually used in determining prices were not adequate nor available. The effect of the new prices on the industry's earning position however will be observed and adjustments made in the future if required.

HARBOR CITY IN REQUEST FOR BUS LINE TO BEACH

While consideration has been given to the possibility of extending Torrance Municipal Bus lines into Long Beach, bus line operators in the harbor district are to be approached to determine possibility for a direct line from Harbor City to Long Beach via Wilmington, the Harbor City Chamber of Commerce has agreed. The desired bus service and a campaign for mail delivery are two of the objectives of the civic body decided at the first meeting of the chamber since its recent reorganization with Bert Lynn as president.

of each of these men was endorsed by local veteran and farm groups.

Boker said the board would convene shortly to recommend the qualifications which must be met by applicants for the Klamath public lands. Such requirements relate to the minimum standards of industry, experience, character and capital deemed necessary to a successful entryman who will make his living by irrigated farming in that area. Congress already has granted to veteran a 90-day preference in the consideration of their application for the farms.

"The bureau is making every effort to clear the way for opening these lands by August," said Boker. "Until the opening date is formally announced, no applications may be considered. Veterans who wish to be advised of the opening date should file their request with the Bureau of Reclamation, Klamath Falls, Oregon." The 7,500 acres to be opened to entry are located in the Tule Lake division, California, of the Klamath Project.
