

Sunday Marks First Ball Game In Triple 'A' Winter League

The Torrance Signal Oilers, league players of the past season in their rosters. Rosabell Plumbers, Hermosa Beach, Skyline Club, Torrance Signal Oilers, Long Beach Rockets and Ventura have been named home clubs in the circuit. The traveling teams are Rawak Candy Co., Los Angeles Police, Rosebowl Midgets, Sampson Motors, 20th Century Fox and Burbank.

Each home club will compete with each of the traveling teams, it was explained, until six games have been played. The top two travelers will then meet to determine a champion in their group, which will play the winner of the home group.

Rawak Candy Co. is managed by second baseman Jerry Fridy of the Washington Senators. Fridy named Dillinger and Dalgren of the Browns, Lyons of the N. Y. Yankees, Malone of Columbus and Stephens of Oakland as being among the top-notchers in his lineup for Sunday.

Art Swartz has Tommy Gwif and Cal Barnes, who are owned by the Boston Red Sox; Bill Harris, a St. Louis Cardinals player; Bill White and Bob White, N. Y. Yankees; Ed Harrison, formerly of Hollywood; Bill Spaeter, Brooklyn Dodgers; Al Spatter, Portland; Bill Schuster and Joe Stephenson of the Los Angeles Angels; Bud Sheeley, Hollywood, and others listed with triple "A" clubs throughout the nation.

Sunday's game will begin at 2 p.m.

Torrance Bees Defeat Youthful Gauchos 6-0

The Torrance Tarabees Friday took their cue from the seniors in opening the Marine League football season and trounced the Narbonne Bees 6-0 on the latter's own home field.

Coch Milton Katz had trouble pumping life into his Tartar Bees during the first quarter, but managed to create threats all over the field in the second half. The young Gauchos wouldn't hold still for threats, however, and held their northern visitors scoreless until the final quarter.

With a first down on the two-yard line, Frank Faren beat his way over the goal for the lone marker.

STRIPTEEES

By John P. Stripling

THE BUCK PASSED US . . . Being a novice hunter, and lazy too, last Thursday found our scribe sitting near a wild game water hole in the Skikyou mountains patiently awaiting a deer to come and enjoy a drink from the cool sulphur springs.

Our chosen perch was upwind from the likely trail, and as we lay prone upon the ground with our rifle trained toward the cool waters, a fat blue doe came into the clearing and sniffed in the area, then after some hesitation she went to the water hole.

We took a steady aim behind the barren doe's right ear. The distance was perhaps 25 yards and elevated some 30 feet above the springs. We simulated at least a dozen shots into that vital spot before she finished her drink and finally disappeared into the surrounding thicket.

Before the sun had dropped behind a lofty peak nearby, we had theoretically killed three choice does. But not one buck crossed our sights during this and other days. We spent hunting in the area.

During the time spent on the lofty perch overlooking the sulphur springs, we read an article in a national sport magazine written by Dan Parker, a top-rank boxing expert who wrote quite bluntly of the evils that are strangling the cauliflower business.

In his case against boxing, Parker listed 12 points, one of which cited the lack of centralized control which is responsible for poor cooperation among the states on suspensions. Another point condemned the slipshod physical examinations as a result of which boxers who are half blind are allowed to fight. On this score Parker pulls no punches in citing recent cases.

We suggest that all who are interested in the game read "My Case Against Boxing," which will be an eye-opener to fight fans who pay big money to see the pro leather-pushers perform.

MIDGET NOTES . . . By the time the Gilmore midget race car season ends, which will be Thanksgiving night, nearly a half-million fans will have witnessed the thunderbugs perform there. Twenty-four meets have been conducted before a total paid admission of 371,443 race hungry fans.

According to our information, this is an all-time record for successive midget car programs at any single stadium in the United States!

First Annual 'Shotgun Fiesta' Slated Sunday

A call to arms was issued by Vern Anderson, chairman of the Fish and Game Committee of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, for all rifle enthusiasts to participate in the first annual "Shotgun Fiesta" Oct. 20 at Griffith Park Trap and Skeet club.

Handsome prizes, donated by many of the area's leading sporting goods and department stores, will be awarded the top marksmen, although every participant will be given a prize equivalent to the two dollar entry fee, regardless of his score, Anderson said.

Gardena Bowl Scene Of Major Big-Car Racing

Second in a series of major big car racing programs, first on the Pacific Coast since the war, will be staged at the Gardena Bowl, 174th and Vermont, starting at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Time trials for a prospective field of more than 30 will begin at noon.

Arvol Brummeier of Alhambra, long-time favorite of the Pacific Coast fans, who came out of retirement to best a strong field in the racing inaugural several weeks ago, will be back gunning for his second straight. Brummeier was one of the most popular drivers at the old Legion Ascot track in the East Los Angeles foothills.

However, Sunday he will be facing a field replete with big names of the recent Eastern speedway and dirt track programs, all on the Coast for the season's final races. The invading drivers will include Hal Cole of South Gate, sensation in the recent Eastern events and winner last weekend at Oakland; Jimmy Wilbur of Indianapolis; Bill Scheffler of Portland; Bud Rose, Oakland and others.

Touch Football League Soon To Begin Play

Touch football leagues for boys and adults will begin as soon as a few more teams are signed up to play in each league, Elmer "Red" Moon, sports director of the Torrance Recreation department, said yesterday.

Probable entries in the adult division are the Ravens club, Columbia Steel, Moose club, Dow Chemical Co. and a group of young men at present unnamed and under the leadership of Bob Lewellen Jr.

Groups interested are urged to contact Moon in order to complete schedules for the 12-year-old and under group for boys, two teams have been signed. They are the Redskins, captained by Charles Camou and the Bulldogs under Captain Charlie Babbitt. These teams scrimmage Saturday at 10 a.m. in Torrance city park.

For the 16-year-olds and under, Donnie Stevenson and Glenn Mitchell each have entered.

Pueblo will be captained by Victor Ordaz.

Boys who are forming teams should remember that Varsity "B" players, or lettermen, are ineligible to play in the boys' leagues.

Moon announced that basketball leagues also will be formed in the near future.

OIL FIRM FILES PLAN TO ABANDON TORRANCE WELL

Oil production in the Torrance field took a slight step backward last week, according to the report of the oil and gas division, state department of natural resources.

With not a single notice for new drilling, redrilling or deepening filed with the division during the week, one announcement of intention to abandon was turned in.

The well in question was C.C. M.O. Company's Torrance No. 28, located on section 15.

Zamperini's Underdogs Do More Than Growl In Season's Opener

A supposedly strong Narbonne varsity football squad was dealt a crushing defeat at the hands of a surprisingly powerful Torrance varsity last Friday on the local field.

The Tartars, who went into the game a 13-point underdog, unleashed a powerful and deceptive offense, as well as a fast-charging defense that smashed the Gauchos to ribbons.

The first score was set up when Tom Faren, Tartar fullback, blocked a Narbonne kick in the second quarter. After one play into the line, Ralph George, Tartar quarterback, faked back and flipped a 22-yard pass to Leroy Schwenk, who romped from the two-yard line to score.

Later, George made a terrific interception of a pass from Marklyn Groves, Gaucho half, and aided by a key block by Tom Faren, sprinted 30 yards to score.

Schwenk, who kicked the first extra point, missed the second. The third Tartar score to be set up was a sensational catch by right end Bill Wood, who dove to grab the pass from George, which had been deflected by two Narbonne men.

In the next play George cracked over from the one-yard line. The Gauchos scored in the fourth quarter when Bill Stits, Narbonne fullback, smashed over from the four-yard line.

Dominick Donatoni, Tartar right guard, stood out like a tower of strength in the forward wall.

Jay R. Stroh, Torrance right tackle, did most of the kicking for the Tartars and ran back a Narbonne kick-off.

In first downs, the Gauchos outplayed the Tartars with an 11-7 lead.

Pete Zamperini, pinch-hitting for Coach John Winfield, who is ill, did a bang-up job steering the Tartars to victory.

Narbonne plays Banning tomorrow at Griffin field, where they will be out to avenge last year's 7-0 defeat. A close game is predicted in this one, due to the large number of Gaucho lettermen.

Coach Sheldon Loughborough predicts a hard fought affair, with neither team winning by more than seven markers.

Torrance draws a bye this week and will face the Pilots on the latter's home field Oct. 25. Banning, who was defeated by San Pedro in the opener, is expected to be a smarter team when they face the Tartar squad.

TO OUR FRIENDS

Effective September 30 our partnership and mutual ownership of the Torrance Hardware Company and the Torrance Lumber Company was dissolved.

This was done with the mutual consent and satisfaction of both of us . . . and in order that each of us may devote our entire time in the business in which we each and individually are most interested.

Therefore one partner (Charlie Jones) has assumed complete control and ownership of the Torrance Hardware and the other partner (Slim Silligo) has assumed complete control and ownership of the Torrance Lumber Company.

We both thank all of our friends for their best wishes . . . and assure them of our appreciation of their continued cooperation and patronage of both firms.
