NEW CONCERT GROUP TO ELECT DIRECTORS

The newly-formed Torrance Community Concert Association will be governed by a board of directors to be elected soon, representing many phases of the community life.

These directors, he explained, will meet with the officers in planning details of the forthcoming membership campaign, setting up the organization's policies, and selecting the artists to be brought to Torrance next fall and winter.

Plans are being discussed for the enrollment of members in the non-profit association, organized here recently for the purpose of assuring an annual series of at least three major concerts by the nation's leading professional musicians.

The Torrance Community Concert Association will be affiliated with similar organizations in some 500 other cities and towns throughout the United States and Canada.

San Pedro Series Concerts To Begin Saturday, Nov. 22

The third season of the San Pedro Philharmonic and Artists Assn. Inc., will open Saturday, Nov. 22 with a concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra under the baton of music director and conductor Alfred Wallenstein.

This concert is the first in the subscription series, which also will bring to San Pedro the following: Bartlett and Robertson, world-famous piano duo; the Caprino Sisters Operatic Quartette; Draper and Adler, tap dancer supreme and harmonica virtuoso; and a second concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra.

Program for this concert will include "Prelude to Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg," by Wagner; "Quiet City," by Copland, with a trumpet solo by John Clyman; Symphony in A major, No. 4, "Italian," Op. 90; Nutcracker Suite, Op. 71a, by Tchaikowsky; and "Lemminkainen's Homeward Journey," Op. 22, by Sibelius.

A limited number of memberships for this subscription series are available from any board member, or in Lomita from Mrs. W. M. Schildmeyer or Wilfred Jeffery. Mrs. Robert E. Carson, president, states there will be no single admissions available at the door on the night of the concerts.
