

Man Fined $60 for Indecent Exposure

Arrested by Torrance police for indecent exposure in the Torrance Theater, Jack Jacob Miller of Wilmington appeared before City Judge Otto B. Willett Monday morning and was sentenced to pay a fine of $60, according to the court records. A suspended sentence of 30 days in the county jail was also handed down by Judge Willett who placed the man on one year's probation.

Opening of bids for construction of a one-story field house at the entrance to the new stadium at El Camino College has been set for Mar. 7 by the board of trustees.

Straightening Of "Dog-Leg" Due Soon

Elimination of the "dog-leg" in Crenshaw boulevard at 190th street will start as soon as the weather-man gives the "go-ahead" signal, City Manager George Stevens said this week.

He stated that 2.75 acres had been purchased, the site surveyed, and that the state has approved the project. Cost of the land was $5000, Stevens said.

Actual construction details will consist of extending Crenshaw boulevard straight across 190th street to "feather-in" with the present alignment of the highway on the north side of 190th street.

Grading Bids Due Friday

School administrators will open bids tomorrow (Friday) afternoon for grading and site preparation for the new S-side elementary school, east of Seaside Ranchos subdivision.

Award of the contract probably can be made at next Tuesday night's regular meeting of the board, when it is hoped that working drawings and specifications for the new building can be adopted for the new school plant.

The plans will call for 16 classroom units, a cafeteria (cafeteria and auditorium), domestic science unit in the cafeteria building, a shop building, and administration building.

Gray

instrumental in organizing a "Bill Gray Fund" indicated that "Torrance was taking care of its own" by reporting that the Torrance Optimist Club had pledged $100 toward the fund. The club is withholding actual subscription of the money until a board of trustees for the fund is established. The name of Coach Eddie Cole has been suggested as an administrator of the fund.

Young Gray was a member of the Optimist Club junior softball team last summer.

Praising 16-year-old Calvin Browning, Mrs. Bunge said: "I can't tell you how grateful I am to Calvin. From what Billy has told me about how it happened, we feel that if it wasn't for him Billy wouldn't be alive today."

Explaining her reasoning she continued: "Calvin was right behind Billy when he fell off the train and under the wheels. Only chance kept him from being killed right then. There was no time for anybody to do anything before the first set of wheels severed Billy's arm. But Calvin without stopping to think about himself a bit reached under the rolling train and pulled him out of the way before the second set of wheels . . . she broke off here, her voice choked, her eyes moist.

"I am so grateful. Isn't there something we can do. Even if it's just to tell people about how he reached under that moving train to help Billy," she added.

The other boys at the scene reported that Calvin remained with Billy, fashioned a tourniquet for the injured boy, and reassured him while they ran nearly half-a-mile for help.

Jimmy Elder, well-known radio commentator, expressed an interest in Calvin's deed this week and was awaiting newspaper publication of the event before considering him as a possible nominee for his "Hero of the Week" feature.

Among the school chums, friends, and well-wishers who visited the youth at the hospital were two men, both of whom had lost both of their arms. One of the men, Jerry Leavy, had lost his arms after he fell out of a tree when he was 14 years old. The other, Lonnie Carberry, was injured in France during World War II, and like his companion was wearing artificial arms. The pair are engaged in prosthetic research for the federal government as consultants in the development of artificial arm. They demonstrated for the hospitalized youth their dexterity with their mechanical arms by tying their shoes, buttoning their shirt cuffs, lighting their own cigarettes, and similar routine feat.

Several community minded groups had expressed a desire to participate in efforts to raise funds to enable the youth to regain a useful position in the community. They were informed that any contributions could be mailed to the "Bill Gray Fund" in care of the Torrance Herald for deposit to the account of the youth.

Young Gray was released from the hospital yesterday afternoon and sent to his home at 2513 Carson street.
