Man Finds Wild West Ain't as Wild as It Was

Time was when an hombre could walk into a bar, announce his arrival by firing a couple of shots through the ceiling, and get a drink from the crowd. Now he gets thrown in the clink. At least that's what happened to Robert Watson, 2138 Middlebrook street, who is a "deputy sheriff" in the San Pedro Fiesta. Watson, business agent of the Retail Clerks' Union, stalked into a San Pedro bar last Thursday fired two shots at the ceiling to herald his arrival in the drink dungeon. Two real policemen failed to see the humor of the incident and took Watson to jail. Watson told Judge Vernon W. Hunt that the spirit of the Fiesta "just carried me away." The "deputy sheriff" commissioned to watch for headless men during the Fiesta is scheduled to appear before the San Pedro Judge today to enter his plea.
