CHECK SHOCK ABSORBERS

Part of keeping the car lubricated, despite the proneness of so many car owners to forget it, is the task of having the shock absorbers checked. They are dependent to a large extent for their correct operation upon the amount of fluid in them.

PEDESTRIANS KILLED

More than 12,000 pedestrians were killed on America's streets and highways last year. To help cut down this tragic toll, pedestrians should look both ways before stepping off the curb, cross only at properly designated crosswalks and be alert at all times.

"Now if Mom approves of you, Joe, she'll say out loud—but if I'm called into the kitchen—you beat it!"

Most Melodies From Works Of Renowned Composers

By RUDOLPH B. SALTZER
Teacher, Sixth Grade, Fern Avenue School

"Why teach 'em that symphony stuff—it's too highbrow for my kids—let 'em learn the practical things." I've heard this many times over and I've wondered just how many people realized that they were contradicting themselves in the same words. Ask them if they ever sang "Three Blind Mice" as a child—highbrow? Certainly it is—the main theme of the third movement of Haydn's Major Piano Concerto. Do they like "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows?" Oh, but it's highbrow too—from Chopin's "Fugue Impromptu"; the same with "Night of the Cat." "All the Things You Are"—all themes and melodies from serious world renowned composers, such as Schalkovsky, Ravel and Prokofiev.

The greatest music is based on melodies which are rooted deeply in the hearts and souls of the common people of the world over. The things that Lincoln said and did are not great because he said them. They are great because he had a humble and abiding faith in the simple truths of life and rights of the common man, and because he could so strongly and eloquently fight for them. It is these basic truths that we must understand. One of the objectives of our school system is to give the students an understanding and appreciation of the things and conditions they find around them and how to distinguish between good and bad. This is as important as learning the three "R's" and the alphabet and a few English rules. This means learning to apply arithmetic and good English to everyday living and learning to enjoy the really beautiful things in life, such as a fine painting or a beautiful song.

A person doesn't have to be rich to enjoy these things—he has only to be acquainted with them and know their certain uniqueness and, therefore, appreciate their beauty. This sense of beauty does not always assure lifetime prosperity, but it is one of the few things that we humans possess that other living creatures do not and we owe it to ourselves and our children to develop it. "A man should read a little poetry, see a good picture, and hear some good music every day of his life, in order that worldly cares may not obliterate the sense of beauty which God has implanted in the human soul."—Goethe.

The Lord's Prayer is not, as some fancy, the easiest, the most natural of all devout utterances. It may be committed to memory quickly, but it is slowly learned by heart—Maurice.
