

LISTEN MY CHILDREN . . . And you shall hear the correct way to speak a foreign language as these students are doing at El Camino College's language listening room. Jeanette Wehr and Diane Rehard listen while Mrs. Eva Roth, Spanish Instructor, supervises the operation of the recording devices. Each language student spends some time each week listening to the language tapes. Regular classes at El Camino begin September 13.

Chiseler's Plans Nipped by Bills

By ROSS GRAHAM

Governor Warren's signature on two of the four unemployment insurance "reform" bills sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Association of which the Torrance Herald is a member, during the 1951 legislature marks the first time since the inauguration of unemployment insurance that steps to protect the fund and steady workers have been successful.

Previously opponents of "wide-open" unemployment insurance payments which were unjustified in many instances have fought a defensive battle and have held down the "chiselers' gravy-train," although the fund was steadily depleted during recent years. The end of the bill-signing period found two bills signed into law by Governor Warren, one bill pocket-vetted by the governor and the remaining CNPA sponsored bill defeated in the Assembly during the recent session.

AB 2502, to end the "lag-quarter" racket, whereby claimants have been getting in many cases two six-month periods of unemployment insurance payments on one job, although 26 weeks (six months) is the limit as defined by the law, was signed by the governor. Previously he had signed AB 676, which gives employers a better chance to protect their merit ratings, which determines the amount of unemployment insurance taxes they pay.

AB 1715 was "pocket-vetted" by the governor with the explanation he felt paying women unemployment insurance when they voluntarily quit their jobs to have babies or follow their husbands to other places helped to keep families together.

Net result of the CNPA campaign, which was supported by other public-spirited organizations, was to defeat "liberalizing" legislation which would have milked the unemployment insurance fund of an additional $120,000,000 a year, and passage of the two above bills which will make a definite saving in money now being expended of about $10,000,000 a year, for the unemployment insurance fund to which employers, but not employees contribute.

Reflections

MANY NURSES GRADUATED

To choose the career of nursing is to choose the ultimate of service to humanity.

These young women see life through a graduate and compare it with the size of a pill. Their choice of color is white and their favorite expression is a smile. They can tell time but they are more familiar with pulse beats in a minute. Temperature is not caused by the rays of the sun but infection in the bloodstream.

Our population may be a statistical figure but to them the percentage who will need their ministrations is more important. Speed races have one application; transportation to get seriously ill patients to a hospital, more quickly.

We think of nurses as being above human beings; they are! They are the angels on earth.
