

Students Earn College Credits While Working

Here's an answer for young people puzzled over whether to go to college or get a job. Merchandising majors at El Camino College do both—and they get pay as well as college credit for holding down a job.

Under the college's cooperative merchandising training program beginning its third year in September, sophomore students are helped to obtain part-time jobs with local merchandising firms, according to Dr. Wm. Harless, director of instruction.

Jacob H. Martin, merchandising instructor, will interview applicants for the cooperative merchandising program from 1 to 5 p.m. during the week of August 27-31. Special morning appointments may be made by telephoning the college, ME 4-6631 or PLYmouth 6-1421.

Purpose of the interviews is to arrange appointments with personnel managers of stores and to assign jobs to students. Only prerequisite for enrolling in the class is the completion of two acceptable college business courses or sophomore standing. Students transferring from other colleges are eligible.

The cooperative merchandising classes are open to all qualified students with a year of business training, but it is offered primarily as a part of the college's two-year program for students planning to enter retail and selling, retail store management, management, advertising, warehousing, and other distributive occupation positions.

Merchandising majors working toward the Associate of Arts degree receive training in business procedures, salesmanship, retail selling, marketing, business management, advertising, sales personality and speech, employer-employee relationships, and purchasing techniques. El Camino College is a tuition free two year college located at Crenshaw and Redondo Beach boulevards. Information bulletins may be obtained, and class schedules for the semester beginning September 10 will be available August 27.

Back to School Dance Slated by Tartar Teens

Sponsored by the Tartar Teen Club, a gala Back to School dance is scheduled from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. on September 15 in the Civic Auditorium. Don Brewer and his outstanding orchestra, music numbers for past teenage dances in the Civic, will provide music for the affair, which is expected to draw hundreds of students and alumni of local schools.
