"Contentment" Is Theme of Gardena Float

"Contentment," featuring a happily married couple and youngsters looking forward to the future, is the entry of the Gardena Valley Chamber of Commerce in the 63rd annual New Year's Day parade of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses. There will be one young man and five girls on the float. It will depict a married couple seated in a large wedding ring, accompanied by four bridesmaids. At the front will be three animated figures, a boy, a girl and a dog. Carnations, sweet peas, orchids, chrysanthemums and roses will be used in creating the floral atmosphere. At the rear will be a tall cathedral. The idea is young children looking forward to their dreams of the future; theme of the 1952 parade. The size of the float is a maximum 15 feet high, 20 feet wide and 40 feet long; Robert Shelby is doing the decorating at the Burke Machine Shop in Gardena.

Colonel Vernet Now Commands 160th Infantry

Lt. Col. Herbert A. Vernet Jr., who lived at 1547 West 204th street before being recalled to active duty with the California National Guard, has been named to command Los Angeles' own 160th Infantry Regiment. It was announced in Japan this week by Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudson, division commander. Colonel Vernet, sales manager for a large food concern in civilian life, is inspector general of the former National Guard division. His wife and three children now reside at 285 Arch street, Akron, Ohio. Appointment of Colonel Vernet to the command was said to be only temporary. He replaces Lt. Col. Warren E. Bonit of Los Angeles, who returned to the United States on emergency leave.

El Camino Gets Flag from C of C

Chamber of Commerce representatives, a movie producer, a motion picture star and Miss My L. A. were all on the El Camino college campus last Friday for a student assembly and presentation of a school flag to El Camino. Clarence Green, writer and coproducer of the motion picture, "The Well," was on hand to receive a citation from the El Camino cultural relations department. He was accompanied by Christine Larson, star of the movie. Nancy Hadley, who was chosen "Miss My L.A." appeared to take part in flag presentation ceremonies which were sponsored by the campus chapter of Future Business Leaders of America, and made possible by members of Chambers of Commerce in the college district.

Chambers of Commerce participating in the purchase and presentation of the school flag to El Camino College included Henry W. Creger, president, and Blaine Walker, secretary-manager of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce.
