

Welcome Mat Out For New Residents

Thanksgiving this year meant more than just a day to eat turkey and all the trimmings to little Michael Wilson, son of Robert and Marion Wilson, 1769 Marinette St., for it was also his third birthday. To make it an especially memorable one, there was not one, but two birthday parties for him. The first one was at noon at the home of his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Wilson of Redondo Beach. Besides turkey and all the usual Thanksgiving trimmings, there was a big birthday cake with plastic cowboys riding herd among the candles. Also present were Michael's aunt and uncle, Glendine and Jack Wilson, and cousin Carol and Loretta. In the evening, Michael was the honor guest at his maternal grandmother's, Mrs. Bona Azolam, also of Redondo Beach. Helping to make that celebration a special one was aunt and uncle Joe and Rose Magnante, Ruby and Dick Magnante from Los Angeles, and Abe and Wanda Azolam of Lynwood, and cousins Joey and Vince Magnante, Sara, Stella, Rosemary, Tommy and Bona Magnante, and uncles Sam and Albert Azolam. Uncle Albert was home on leave from the Navy. This group was served ice cream accompanied by another attractively decorated cowboy cake. Of course, baby brother Patrick attended both parties too. What an exciting day for this three-year-old! And how many can boast of two parties?

Joe and Velma Lucas opened their home Thanksgiving Day to friends from their old hometown of Martin's Ferry, Ohio, when they entertained Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thompson, and sons Keith and Bruce of El Monte, and Mr. Frank Withers and Mr. William Davis of Bellflower. After eating all they could hold of that of bird, the afternoon was spent visiting and playing cards.

Taking advantage of the holiday from school Friday, Willie Archbold and children, who used to live at the corner of Reynosa and Middlebrook Rd., spent the week-end as the guest of Dorothy and Dick Oliver of 1814 Middlebrook Rd. The Archbolds now make their home in San Diego. Thanksgiving Day, Dorothy and Dick were hosts to Dick's relatives for dinner. Those enjoying the delicious meal and pleasant company were Dick's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Oliver of Hawthorne, an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stuart of Huntington Park, and parents Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Oliver of Los Angeles.

Heard that Louise Pearson, and sons Steven and Daniel, of Gramerey Ave., flew back to Indiana for the Thanksgiving holiday to spend it with Louise's folks. They're expected back sometime this week.

It was a thrilling and exciting week-end for Joyce Wayt, daughter of Jimmy and Madelyn Wayt, of Reynosa Dr. for she accompanied her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph McTague, to Merced for the holiday. While there they were the guests of Joyce's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Cabe. They took the bus as far as Bakersfield, then the streamliner the rest of the way. So the trip wasn't in the least monotonous, and Joyce really had a "wonderful time."

Bad luck always seems to run in groups, and there is one family that is hoping that the group will be no bigger than three unfortunate events. The past few months, Richard McCulley of 1838 Reynosa Dr. has been wondering what he has done to deserve all the mishaps that have befallen him. . . . It started last summer when his appendix acted up, necessitating its removal. Then an ulcer made itself known, also requiring surgery. Now the latest and perhaps the most uncomfortable: He broke three ribs while in Santa Maria on business recently. He is trussed up in a harness-type brace, and can be up and around a little, though much movement of any sort is quite uncomfortable.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of C. A. Jobe Jr.'s mother, Mrs. C. A. Jobe Sr., Nov. 5. She had undergone surgery and her sudden death was caused by a post-operative hemorrhage. We'd like to extend our sympathy.

Hi, neighbor! And welcome to Kettler Knolls. This is the greeting we'd like to extend to Vernon and Shirley Eaton, who have bought the house at 1840 Reynosa Dr. Both Shirley and Vernon are native Californians, having spent most of their life in and around the Harbor area. Completing the family circle is Alan, who will be 6 in February, and Dawn, a blue-eyed curly headed little girl of 2. Vernon is a carpenter by trade, and enjoys hunting and fishing whenever he can manage the time to indulge in these outdoor hobbies.

Another new neighbor we'd like to welcome and introduce in the Otto Giese family who are renting the Crosswhite house almost across the street from the Eatons, at 1838 Reynosa Dr.

Children Otto Jr., who is 7 and in second grade, Elizabeth, 6 and in first grade at Torrance Elementary, and Susan who is 3, are the prides and joys of Otto and Mary Giese, who formerly lived on Patronella Ave. in North Torrance. Otto Sr. is a carpenter, and likes nothing better than to spend his spare time refinishing old furniture. Oh yes, we mustn't forget Snoopy; she's the black cat that is also a member of the family, so shouldn't be left out.

National Supply's Management Club held a dinner for its members at Scully's Restaurant in Los Angeles last Wednesday evening, with Kettler Knolls being represented by the presence of Gordon and Virginia Jones, Ed and Mary Lou Karlow, and Georgia and Charles Spiker. Dr. Kurt Singer was the speaker for the evening, and spoke most interestingly on Communism.

Making their two weeks visit extend over the Thanksgiving holiday, were Gordon and Mae Klimmet of 234th St., who just got home from a vacation in San Jose. While there they were the guests of Mae's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burns. Earl and Gordon spent quite a bit of the time fishing; didn't say how good their luck was. Said it was fun, so what difference did it make the kind of luck they had. Mae and her sister made doll clothes for the new Christmas dolls and "just visited!" However, they did get in a visit to the famed Mystery House there in San Jose, which was built by an eccentric old woman who believed that as long as she never completed her home, she'd live, and so continued to build and build, with some of the most amazing results.

My mother, Mrs. Margie F. Wold, arrived last night from Vancouver, Wash., where she has spent the past month visiting relatives on her way home from her summer's job in Fairbanks, Alaska. She will make her home with us this winter, and in the spring plans to return to Fairbanks, where she has worked for the past two summers.

Thinking that the new baby sister, Susan Marie, is just exactly what he wanted and something very special, little Stevie Davis never tires singing the praises of her to all his little playmates. The second child of Don and Louise Davis of Cambria Ave. made her debut into the Davis family, circa Thursday, Nov. 30 at San Pedro Community Hospital. The dainty miss weighed in at 8 lbs. 15 1/2 oz. a few minutes after her entrance at 3:58 a.m. The proud papa is a fireman for the City of Torrance, so all that smoke that you have seen coming from the fire station is just the cigars that Don has passed out. Happy grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Davis of San Pedro, and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. (Bill) McEwen of Kettler Knolls. Congratulations, folks!
