Sports

STRETCH... Bill Sommers (hidden) and Jim Walgren (back to camera) go up after the elusive casaba in holiday cage play now going on at the girls' gymnasium at Torrance High School. The games are open to any boy who wants to join in. From this spoofing onward, Elmer (Red) Moon, sports director, hopes to form a basketball league among the smaller fry to open Jan. 3. Others in the picture are (from left) Jim Pine, Harry Theodosis, Richard Malone and Moon.

Sports Scene Quiet For Yuletide

BY WIN BOWLES
Sports on the local scene took an abrupt et folio with the onset of Christmas holidays. Basketball—the main winter sport—was continuing apace but not as far as Torrance High school was concerned. And the El Camino cagers are currently on a barnstorming tour of Northern California. As for the Tartars, they are enjoying a Christmas vacation with the nightmare of practice season—in which they won only one contest and lost six in a row—almost behind them. School reopens Dec. 29, and two days later the Tartars take on Morningside in the new gymnasium on the campus. That game, one with Narbonne Jan. 6, and one with Inglewood Jan. 9, completes the practice schedule. The chips will fall in earnest beginning Jan. 16, when Torrance entertains Beverly Hills in the opening of Bay League competition. From then until Feb. 27, with four days—Feb. 47—out for the Beverly Hills tournament, every game will be vital league competition. Overall, the league looks tough, with perhaps Redondo Beach the most formidable opponent on any team's schedule. The Beach Boys copped the first annual Pacific Shores tournament, and, as this was written, were playing for the blue ribbon in the Long Beach prep tourney. The Seahawks go against Compton and their sensational center, Woodie Saulsberry, who tanked 32 points Friday night against Long Beach Wilson as the Tarababes copped a 64-58 victory. Redondo, meanwhile, was beating Montebello, 46-36.

Coach Rex Welch's Tartar cagers are working on their new offense and defense. I can't think of a better resolution for New Year's for the Torrance team than the resolve to play as a team in the best way possible—win, lose or draw. While I'm here, a Merry Christmas to all the sports fans everywhere, but especially to Welch, who is undoubtedly wishing he could wake up Dec. 25 and find four 6'5" forwards in this stocking.
