

FRANK COFFIN
... Heads District 6 PIRA

Industry Leaders
Learn of Prison
At PIRA Meeting

Kenyon J. Scudder, superintendent of the California State Institution for Men at Chino, who was the subject of a recent Reader's Digest article, was the speaker of the afternoon at the regular meeting of the Personnel and Industrial Relations Assn.

The meeting held at Mike Lyman's Restaurant at the International Airport last week was presided over by Frank Coffin, industrial relations representative of the General Petroleum Corp. He is the new chairman of District Six of the PIRA.

Attending the meeting were industrial relations representatives of several local industries. The meetings are open to industrial relations representatives of companies in District Six which comprises the area west of Figueroa St. and from San Pedro to the International Airport.

The subjects of the meeting, says Chairman Coffin, usually touches on some phase of personnel or labor relations including safety, hiring, and welfare of employees.

Riviera Homeowners
To Select New Officers

A nominating committee to select a slate of candidates to head the Hollywood-Riviera Homeowners Assn. for the coming year will be the top order of business when the organization meets Monday evening, Feb. 2, at El Retiro Park.

Heading the slate of officers will be a name to succeed D. R. Whitney, who has served the organization as its president during the past year.
