West Basin Restriction To Be Aired

More than 100 representatives of water producing agencies in this area are expected to attend the West Basin Water Assn. meeting tonight to hear an explanation and discussion of the interim agreement which would reduce annual pumping from the area by approximately 37,000 acre feet.

The special meeting, which will be held at the Palos Verdes Country Club beginning at 6:30 this evening, will be attended by prominent engineers and attorneys who have spent a year preparing the agreement, according to Carl Fossette, executive secretary of the West Basin.

The program of restricted pumping is designed to conserve the fresh water supply in the West Basin. It has been threatened by salt water intrusion in recent years.
