Supersonic Jet Trainer Ends Tests

North American Aviation's modified, two-seat, Supersonic jet trainer has successfully completed its first test flight. The swift, transonic trainer version of the Korea-famed Air Force F-86 Sabre Jet is designed for advanced pilot training in high-speed flight, gunnery, and dive bombing. Before it makes public appearance, however, it will undergo further flight evaluation by North American Aviation's engineering light test section. On the first test flight, North American Test Pilot Ray Morris was at the controls.

Guns Added
Modifications made to the prototype TF-86F, first test flown last December, include installation of two .50 caliber machine guns for gunnery practice; a new, larger dorsal fin; an added ventral fin, resembling a "bullet's keel" which gives better directional stability; and a raised rear seat and foldable front seat head rest, both affording better instructor visibility.

Dual Controls
For the trainer, North American's engineers added a tandem cockpit, dual controls and a duplicate instrument panel to the original installations on the Air Force's F-86F fighter-bomber. Only two modifications to the F-86E airframe were necessary to compensate for these additions. One, the fuselage section between the nose and wing roots was extended 63 inches, and two, the 35-degree swept back wings were moved forward eight inches.

Piano Teacher Readies Students For Busy Season

Kathryne Buffington, prominent Torrance pianist and teacher is looking forward to a busy fall season preparing more students for recognition in musical circles, she states.

Mrs. Buffington, who received her training under such all-time greats as Richard Buhlig, William O'Toole and Dr. John Markrejs, spent the summer in sponsoring her annual solo and duo-piano recitals for her pupils in the Torrance area, many of whom have gone on to achieve outstanding recognition. Eight of Mrs. Buffington's students have earned scholarships in universities, among them Mickey Van Deventer, of Torrance, who will have the benefit of another scholarship at Redlands University this year.

In her programs this summer, Mrs. Buffington featured students who have made outstanding records in duo-piano, harmony and counterpoint.

Fall classes are forming and Mrs. Buffington urges all interested students and their parents to contact her studio, located at 1926 Arlington in Torrance.

WRATH CURTAILED
BALTIMORE, Md. —irate residents, hiding through Greenway, notified police that H. B. Dunning was violating the ban on spraying his lawn during the recent drought. The answer was simple enough. In 1929, Mr. Dunning had a well dug and an underground sprinkling system laid under his lawn. He can spray his lawn at any time he cares to, using water from his own well.
