An Emergency

Once again Los Angeles County physicians are advertising an all-important telephone number. It is DUknirk 5-1561.

It is our suggestion that you copy it in the space provided on page one of your telephone directory right now because it is the number that will get you in touch with a medical doctor in an emergency at any time of the day or night.

But, as our own personal physician has pointed out, it is much wiser to have your own doctor before an emergency arises.

Business Bugaboos

Studies of small business failures reveal that they spring usually from three causes— incompetence, inexperience, mismanagement.

People who want to go into business for themselves often leap first and look afterwards. They take their own savings, borrow from friends and relations, and launch the enterprise with little knowledge of it or of their own qualifications for that type of work.

Once the business is established, they are not prepared to cope with the problems which arise, and before long the project lands on the rocks.

It's a lot less costly and painful to get all the facts before opening the doors of a new enterprise. There are many sources which will provide specific information—the do's and don'ts—of a small business. It's well also to talk to the local banker and tell him your plans even if you don't need a loan. His knowledge of local business conditions can be especially helpful.

In short, get all the facts you can about the line of business you want to enter. Add a generous portion of common sense, and then one of two things will follow: Either you won't go into the business, or you'll be much more likely to succeed if you do.

The Squirrel Cage

By REID BUNDY

Now pay attention to this, we may ask questions later.

Looking around in the stores and at the ads, we've come to the conclusion that about the only thing you can't get with a Davy Crockett label any more is a Hopalong Cassidy suit.

Thanks to Barney Glazer, who shares space with us here each week, a Squirrel Cage item saw print as far away as Tabor City, North Carolina, recently. One of our Las Vegas items was picked up by Glazer and the Tabor City (N.C.) Tribune ran it. Abhh, fame.

You've no doubt heard of BYOL (Bring-Your-Own-Liquor) parties—well, the Torrance Optimist Club is having a BYOC party tonight at the Palos Verdes home of Atorney and Mrs. Boris Woolley. In this case, everyone is being told to "Bring Your Own Chair." Inasmuch as the menu boast charcoal broiled steaks and the ladies also are invited, the Woolleys were afraid they would not have chairs for the 40 or 65 persons who would show up.

The age of startling speed is with us, and if you want to get a first hand account of what it means to crack the sound barrier as a daily routine, may we suggest you read Bill Bridgeman's book, "The Lonely Sky." In it Bridgeman tells about testing the Douglas Skyrocket on the desert—a ship he finally flew at nearly twice the speed of sound and at an altitude of nearly 80,000 feet. Real breathtaking.

Speaking of speed, a Navy Ensign we know was confined to the Naval Hospital for a few days recently with Virus X or something, and while there, his ship left for Japan. After release from the hospital and a 10-day convalescence leave at home, the Ensign was flown to Japan, where he stood dockside and greeted his ship when it arrived.

Photographers run into some odd situations at times, but one was brought up short recently while on a picture assignment. He was just about ready to snap a picture of several persons in a home setting when one of them jumped up and said, "Whoops, wait a minute." He had forgotten his teeth.

A. T. Franklin was installed as president of Lomita Chamber of Commerce. A petition signed by 60 persons requested the City Council to authorize building of tennis courts at City Park.

30 YEARS AGO

Dean Nichol, 30, of 1540 W. 203rd St., leaped into the surf at Redondo Beach and was able to save his two-year-old baby son, who had toppled from the crowded Monday fishing pier. The baby suffered only bruises when washed up against pilings underneath the pier.

30 YEARS AGO

(June 1925)

Harry B. Lewis was installed as president of Torrance Lions Club. A movement was afoot to greatly increase the number of service club signs in Torrance.

BOISE, Idaho—Anybody who thought that Torrance is getting bigger should take a look at the way Torrance HERALD is expanding. A couple of weeks ago Reid Bundy went to Las Vegas as a correspondent. Now I'm acting as Boise, Ida., correspondent.

Today, Torrance, Tomorrow, the world. If you've seen those signs on the highway which say, "Next time, take the train," you may still be surprised to know that the 16th Fighter Bomber Wing of the California Air National Guard took that advice.

Since the planes which were supposed to be used to transport the California Guardsmen to summer training here were not available, the Guard took its men to camp just like the signs say.

Plenty of the jet jockeys (F-86 pilots) who are used to slipping along at the speed of sound were a little unhappy about riding the train, which seemed to us, went about 10 miles an hour. It was almost like switching from a car to a donkey.

Among the earthbound travelers was the hero of the recent "Operation Boomerang," Lt. Jack Conroy. He was recently featured nationally in papers and magazines for flying to New York from Los Angeles and back in record-breaking time.

Conroy, who looks like Van Heflin and is considered a pretty good pilot, was particularly unhappy about his train-ride. He who recently traveled over 6000 miles in one day, took his time with the rest of us going 500 miles in two days.

Making the transfer from civilian to military life is like shifting into a different gear. You get used to a different pace of life, a different way of doing things, and no women.

For most of the guys, the lack of women is the biggest loss they suffer. There are girls in Boise, however, and some of them have found consolation there.

The outgoing mail sacks are full of letters written by homesick airmen, and those of us who work in the orderly room are besieged with guys who want to know, "When's the mail gonna come?"

There's nothing longer than the face of a guy who didn't get a letter when the mail is handed out.

The most affectionate letter of the moment came from the girl friend of one of the younger guys.

The body of the letter consisted of 208 "I Love You's."

The saddest guy at the camp was one Robert Jones, who found that a package of candy and cookies from his mother had been delivered to another Robert Jones in another outfit.

The news that the Air Force plans to have knee-length pants and elbow-length shirts was greeted calmly by members of the California Air National Guard training here.

Naples scorching weather ranging up to 102 degrees, the men were bothered by considerations of how their legs would show up in the new outfits.

"I haven't worn short pants since I was in grade school," one grizzled master sergeant noted.

"Who do they think I am? Betty Grable?" a slightly knocked-kneed airman inquired.

"Would we have to shave our legs?" queried a basic airman as he looked up from his weed pulling detail.

"Must be a conspiracy of the burmuda short manufacturers," another opined.

"I've seen plenty of these silly dames running around with those short and funny-looking knee-length stockings. Ya mean we're gonna look like them?" declared an old-timer.

"You guys gotta get with the times. If it's hot, these are the greatest," declared one of the hepcat airmen.

At any rate, it looks as if the Air Force, which has broken with tradition in plenty of ways, is going to do it again. At first glance, it would seem that this is something new and different in the field of American military apparel, but did you ever see pictures of the stuff that the Roman warriors used to wear? Or even George Washington's troops at Valley Forge?

The latest Air Force move is designed for comfort of the troops, which is a step in the right direction. They should be particularly cool in more tropical climates. A pith helmet will be the official head-

AFTER HOURS

By JOHN MORLEY

Paris—(Special to the HERALD)—Travel Notes... The climate in France in June is about the same as New York... it averages about 70. Last night the low was in the 50's. France has about 42,000,000 people... approximately the population of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and the New England states combined. The franc officially is worth 180 to the U.S. dollar. The cost of living is about 30% higher than England... an average hotel with bath is about $7 per day... first class hotel from $10 a day single. A carton of U.S. cigarettes brings upward of $5.50. Coffee for two at a sidewalk cafe on Rue Maubeuge is 40 cents... at the Cafe de la Paix $1.10... a small one scoop dish of ice cream is 50 cents... a small ham sandwich $1.00, a regular U.S. size sandwich $1.50. If you are budget-minded, get away from Paris unless you can move in with friends or stay on the outskirts of the city, or be lucky enough to find a small hotel with the bath two stories up. Time difference... 8 hours later than Eastern Standard time in the U.S.

Each time for the past five years that I have passed through Washington on my way to Paris, I heard U.S. officials say that "France is falling apart" and that it's only a matter of time when some dictator or the Communists will take over. I have been in and out of France a dozen times since 1950 and France is stronger today than it was five years ago and the Communists are getting weaker by the month. France is not falling apart, for it is not in the character of these great people to lose their freedom and their love for the free life in this most democratic country. Here are the facts of present day France. On the question of "too many premiers and too many changes in government" it is true that France has had 106 cabinets in the 70 years of its existence and the defense of France, both the suggestions from U.S. political experts that the fault lies in the fact that too much power is vested in the French National assembly and too little in the premier are incorrect.

The same is true of the assumption that France has too many political parties hence the chaos in French politics. Both of these conclusions are false. The real reason for the many changes in the French government is not too many parties, but the divisions of power inside the parties themselves. For example, in the six major parties of France, with the exception of the Communists, there are members in the assembly who disagree with their party on dealing with Russia, on the German question, on Indo-China, etc. They do not vote down the line, or nearly so, on party platform or policy as our Republican and Democratic members of the various party congress party lines on issues constantly, making it very difficult to govern with any degree of majority. This is the real reason why the Communist party with only 28% of the French vote is so powerful. It is the only party which controls the vote of its members, which in turn is controlled by Moscow. This confusing situation in the French assembly is not the fault of the French constitution, but the French human element involved.

I talked with both Premier Edgar Faure and former Premier Maudes-France today at the Chamber of Deputies. Both are strong men as leaders. Both are sincere and loyal to their country and to the West. Both are strong anti-Communists. Both expressed an assurance of the declining power of Communism and were cheered by their listeners in the assembly.

Communism is Declining Probably a man by the name of Pierre Poujade, a small shop keeper from St. Germain, and his "Union for the Defense of Small Business and Craftsmen" is causing the French government more worry than Maurice Thorez's Communist party in France today. For this French patriot of 35, Poujade, in six months has organized a following in the defense of small business which is greater than the whole membership of the Communist party. A few days ago Pierre Poujade spoke to 200,000 people in a mass meeting in Paris, while the most Communist Thorez could muster on the same day was 1500 for a Red rally less than a mile from Monsieur Poujade's.

Communism in France is in a trap of Soviet design and the trap is closing fast. Communist leadership in Paris is harried and embarrassed by the dilemma of having to follow the present Soviet "softer line" against the West and the idea of "peaceful co-existence" with capitalism. It is not in the nature of French Communists to talk of "co-existence with capitalism." The French Red leaders are not able to discuss economic questions from their platform, as they are presently compelled to do so by orders from Moscow.

100,000 students around the Communist headquarters of Thorez today and the place looked like a morgue by comparison to my last visit. The usual large colored posters displaying the clenched fist of the worker were nowhere to be seen. Without constant campaigns for higher wages, the Red leaders here are impotent and helpless.

In Sam Q. Fischer's cleaning establishment for men's and ladies' clothing there is a counter sign which states: "Clothing Left Today Will Be Ready On Thursday," followed by a few lines of very small type. If you come closer and squint with much effort, this is what you will read: "Why are you reading this small print?"

By the by, we must compliment Mr. Fischer for his public service in cleaning all American flags without charge for Flag Day... The only level headed kids we have today, it seems, are those who have a flattop... The same mothers who sold their little ones carrying cranes in their pockets should take a quick look at their own purses... At four years of age, a child knows all the questions. At 17, he knows all the answers... That quick thinking office employee who was caught napping by his boss said he wasn't sleeping: "I had my eyes closed for a minute of prayer," he explained.

in southern areas, the announcement said. It'll probably be a boon to the manufacturers of Bermuda shorts, too, and may even make them popular in civilian life. Someday, the nation's vital decisions may be made by men in Bermuda shorts. Can you picture President Eisenhower delivering his state of the union message in Bermuda shorts?

From the viewpoint of the wearer, the pants will be easier to hang up, with less to wrinkle. It will mean that the men have to keep their legs clean.

One bad feature in view of the standard joke about military clothing that never fits is that if the pants start to fall off, the wearer will have to grab quicker to retrieve his sagging apparel.

I must tell you the story about the time when New York's Number One Pick-pocket met Detroit's Number One Pick-pocket and they were married and had a son. This could mean only one thing—their child would become America's Number One Pick-pocket. But alas! the youngster was born with a deformed hand—it was tightly clasped and wouldn't open. They finally took the lad to a psychiatrist who used all the conventional methods for relaxing tension. Gradually, the child's tiny fist opened and what do you think was inside? The delivery doctor's wedding ring! Just heard of a fellow who was applying for a job. The employment form asked: "Length of residence in this city and he wrote diligently: "About 35' feet."

Kissing is highly unsanitary but can you think of any nicer way to meet a germ? ... Did you hear about the man who fell and broke his arm at a funeral and made everybody there feel simply awful? ... Next time you'd like to seek vengeance on a friend, you might try what a local schoolteacher did. He sent each of his friend's four children a box of 80 crayons... A motorcycle officer refused this excuse to end all excuses when he stopped a motorist for speeding: "Why, officer, I wasn't driving any faster than I usually do!" ... Next time you think your butcher is giving you too much bone, madame, just remember how wrong you are. He isn't giving it to you. He's charging you for it... A 10-year-old lad kept following a stout woman so closely on a real hot day recently, she called a policeman. The youngster sheepishly said he was just trying to keep in the shade.

What happened in Turin, Italy, with the routing of Communism at the Fiat works last month is happening here in Paris in several factories. The French Communist-run General Labor confederation (C.G.T.) which had some 6,000,000 members five years ago has dropped over 3,000,000 members for non-payment of dues which is a bad sign for Communism at a time when industrial production is at its highest peak in French history.

I went to the offices of the large Communist newspaper, "L'Humanite," which a few years ago boasted a circulation of some 700,000 daily. The admitted figure of the Communist editor today was given to me as "over 100,000" but in all probability are much less. A worse fate has taken over the evening Communist paper in Paris, "Ce Soir." A few years ago I recall its circulation was over 500,000. Today it's out of business from lack of readers and financial support.

Along the Quai D'Orsay and diplomatic row I talked with important foreign officials who know the ins and outs of French political and economic conditions. They were never more optimistic... never more hopeful that France is fighting back with a vigor that has characterized the French people for generations. French industrial production reached an all time high in May... and industrial payroll climbed to a new high. Perhaps the present Soviet policy is geared closer to the revival of our Western Allies than to any change of heart of Communism for the Free World.
