Party Fetes Linda Rogers

A "grown-up" dress party was held by Linda Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Rogers, of 4521 Green Meadows Ave., Torrance, in commemoration of her seventh birthday. Guests were invited to come dressed in their mothers' clothing, and after they arrived it was announced a prize would be given for the girl wearing the most items belonging to her mother.

Of course, everyone wore high heels, long dresses, jewelry, and make-up, but imagination went further in a few instances and the walking wardrobes included Mrs. Rogers' unmentionables. First prize was won by Janet Robinson and a close second was taken by Patricia Potter. Janet wore a beautiful silk organza dress with a billowing skirt. Long white gloves with gold rhinestone bracelets, necklace and earrings matching the gold print in the dress. A large picture hat with flowers and gold high heeled sandals completed the ensemble.

Patricia wore a black taffeta dress open down the front with a many ruffled petticoat peeping through. A pair of long black gloves, bracelets, necklace and earrings, and a pair of black suede sandals completed her ensemble.

Toni Pickering was a center of attraction in an exciting gown that had been purchased in Paris. Assisting at the party were Ruba Rogers, grandmother of the hostess, Mrs. Marvin Anderson, and Mrs. Orville Robinson.

Seaside

The outgoing board headed by Kay Welliver and the incoming board headed by Charlene Christian were responsible for the gathering at the home of Mrs. Robert Parke to campaign for school bonds to campaign for the second school bond election day. With "attention getters" such as huge signs, colorful parade streamers, and blowing horned parade districts were unsway of their purpose.

Work was advised that the huge percentage of voters at the polls in these districts was due to the reminder parade. Upon completion of their rounds, the paraders met for coffee and donuts at Mrs. Parke's home and planned an early execution of an evening fatherly to remind returning fathers to cast their votes before the polls closed.

The program committee headed by Esther Steele met with the new president, Charlene Christian recently to plan activities and for the 1955-1956 term. Seaside PTA has progressive ideas for next year under this able leadership.

PTA Activities

Crenshaw

Newly installed president, Mrs. William F. Drake, called a board meeting at Crenshaw School, Wednesday morning, June 22.

Plans for the coming year were discussed as Mrs. Drake presented the theme "Teamwork Does It." Principal Earl W. Eckert stated that the theme seemed exceptionally appropriate since "the welfare and education of children is our common goal and teamwork is essential in order to achieve greatest results."

The following were ratified and welcomed as committee chairmen: Mrs. Russell Carroll, welfare and health; Mrs. H. D. Robinson, magazine; Mrs. M. E. Sims, art; Mrs. Wm. Skiles, room representative; Mrs. Myron Spaulding, hospitality; and Mrs. Dana Walker, membership.

Parents interested in helping their child and school by working for PTA are asked to call Mrs. William Drake.

Coffee was served the board members by our principal and parliamentarian, Earl W. Eckert.

El Nido

First meeting of the El Nido PTA Executive Board was held at the home of president, Mrs. John Hubacek on Tuesday, June 14. Mrs. Harold Sexton, program chairman, reported on a program workshop she attended. Various themes and program topics were discussed. A program committee headed by Mrs. Sexton, Mrs. Crocker, Mrs. Bergeron, and Mrs. Porter was appointed to set up a program for the year. Four chairwomen were ratified: Mrs. Porter, hospitality; Mrs. Brackett, room means; Mrs. Paris, ways and means; Mrs. Thompson, child welfare.

A special board meeting was held Thursday, June 23 to discuss the change of school districts. Three officers: Mrs. John Hubacek, president; Mrs. William Bergeron, second vice president; and Mrs. D. K. Crockett, treasurer resigned because their children will be attending another school.

Mr. Petrat introduced Lester Foster who will be the new principal of El Nido. The board then elected officers to fill the vacancies so the plans of work for next semester could be done during the summer.

Hillside A class which will teach all phases of parent teacher work will be held at Hillside School starting July 6 from 1:00 until 4:00. The class will be given through Torrance-Cosmes and will be held every Wednesday through the month of July. Any one interested in this worthwhile class may register with Mrs. Richard Heitmeier.
