

THE STORK STORY

New Savings, Loan Office Nearly Ready

A progress report on Palos Verdes Federal Savings and Loan Assn., the proposed new independent financial institution for the Torrance-Palos Verdes Peninsula area, shows its charter application in Washington, D. C., and its offices in the final stages of remodeling.

"We are awaiting word of final approval on our application, and issuance of our charter by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington," said Irvin Marchand, who will manage the association. "Subscriptions exceeded the $500,000 requirement last month, and we have complied with all other preliminary conditions set forth by Congress."

The association's offices in the heart of the Torrance shopping district will be completed soon, Marchand said. It's new and distinctive decor will make the location, two doors from the post office, both pleasantly attractive and exceptionally convenient for local residents, he said.

When the charter is granted, directors will be elected. Marchand said, and the new institution will call in pledges of subscriptions. Grand opening ceremonies will follow within a week or two, he said, featuring free gifts.

Organizers of the proposed Palos Verdes Federal are Manley L. Natland, oil company geologist; Roscoe L. Wood, architect; Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, civic leader and former member of the Palos Verdes city council; Nicholas F. Trutanich, fish cannery and insurance executive; and John B. Copan, aircraft company executive.

Pastor to Get Special Honors

Rev. and Mrs. James P. Loewen, of 2150 W. Sepulveda Blvd., pastors of the local Four-square Church, are among the 120 ministers to receive special recognition at the 33rd annual International Church of the Foursquare Gospel convention opening Jan. 25 for eight days in Angelus Temple, Los Angeles. Award will be given the couple for more than 25 years in the Foursquare ministry, according to Dr. Fred D. Beard, Denver, convention chairman.

Rev. Loewen, also superintendent of Foursquare churches for the Centinela district, will head the delegation from this area attending the conclave, according to Dr. Beard, who says the theme for the 1956 event is "The Golden Year of Pentecost." Seminars and business sessions are scheduled for the morning and afternoon hours, with public meetings each evening.
