

Obituaries

Harry Cump

Funeral services were conducted Friday at 11 a.m. at the Halverson-Leavell Mortuary Chapel here for Harry Cump, 80-year-old retired stevedore, who died Sept. 5, after a long illness.

Mr. Cump lived at 21239 Grace St. He was a native of Pennsylvania but had lived here since 1903.

Cremation was at Pacific Crest Cemetery.

He is survived by a niece, Pearl Reed, of Torrance; a brother, Orville E. Cump, and a sister, Mrs. Mamie L. Gale, both of Pennsylvania.

Mary Howell

Mrs. Mary Howell, 52, of 2621 Rockefeller Lane, Redondo, who died Sept. 7 in a local hospital, will be buried tomorrow at Pacific Crest Cemetery, after funeral rites at 3 p.m. at the Halverson-Leavell Mortuary.

She died from burns inflicted about 21 months ago when her clothing caught fire from an open flame heater at her home.

A native of Illinois, she had lived in this area since 1939.

Survivors include her husband, James, of Redondo; a brother, Raymond Pate, of Illinois; and two sisters, Mrs. Marie Rorak, of Illinois, and Gladys Pate, of Indiana.

Optimist Home Schedules Ceremony for New Chapel

Ground breaking for the first chapel designed expressly for boys of the atomic age has been set for Thursday, Sept. 13, at 2:30 p.m., on the hillside overlooking Optimist Home, 6957 North Figueroa St., Highland Park, it was announced here yesterday by James C. Anderson, president of the Torrance Optimist Club.

"This begins construction of a building as advanced in design as the future of those it will serve," Anderson said. "As a reminder that basic principles of character are the same, yesterday, today and tomorrow, the chapel's 10 pillars will represent the Ten Commandments."

No cross, star or other traditional symbol will stop the building, according to drawings by David Patterson, architect. Instead a tall antenna-like spire will point thoughts upward.

All Faiths Help
Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish clergy are scheduled to participate in ground breaking as the structure is planned to meet their needs equally.

"We help every boy to grow spiritually through his own religious affiliation," explains Agency President Charles E. Bader. "We have Optimists of every denomination. We serve a boy regardless of his race, creed, or color. All churches cooperate with us."

An electric device permits smooth rotation of the entire chancel, giving minister, priest or rabbi proper setting and equipment to conduct his services correctly.

Contractor Named
Vern R. Huck, well known

Southern California contractor, has the responsibility for building the $25,000 chapel.

Although a private agency, Optimist Home serves as an arm of the juvenile court. Its special function is remedial re-education in citizenship for boys selected as likely to benefit most by its recreational and counseling program.

Beginning in 1906 as a farm home for orphans, it has become a half-million dollar residence for 57 boys, age 10 to 16, and is owned by Optimist and Opti-Mrs. clubs of Southern California.

Camino Paper Admitted As CNPA Member

One of nine junior college papers to be so distinguished the El Camino College Warhoop was listed this month as a student member of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Membership in the association will entitle El Camino journalists to be more intimately related with the working press, Merl F. Sloan, director of student personnel at the college stated today.

Addition of the junior college newspaper to CNPA membership is largely the result of negotiations between Richard H. Miller, assistant general manager of CNPA, and the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges. W. A. Kamrath, Warhoop advisor, is president of the latter association.

Close Contact
Through its affiliation with the publishers' group, the local journalism department is placed on close contact with employment opportunities in the newspaper industry on a state-wide basis.

"The demands for El Camino College journalism students to fill part-time and full-time jobs throughout the local area has been greater than we have been able to supply," Kamrath said.

"In fact," he continued, "many fine opportunities for editorial experience will be available on campus this semester in the fields of the newspaper, yearbook, and public relations activities. The addition of photography to the program this year promises to enhance publication work greatly."
