New Library Proposed to House Books for Schools

Plans for a new two-story library buildings to house books for the Torrance Unified School District were unveiled at the recent noon meeting of the Torrance Educational Advisory Committee.

Following a demonstration of the use of the district library, Gertrude Burbage, curriculum librarian, unveiled tentative plans for the new building which officials said is probably a year or so away.

The Torrance Unified School District has a central library of some 50,000 volumes at the present time. These are circulated among teachers and students at the city's 10 elementary schools. Under the proposed plans for a new building, some 200,000 volumes would be housed.

No Individual Libraries

Unlike many school districts, the local elementary schools do not have school libraries as such. Rather, Miss Burbage explained, the district has attempted to buy a greater variety of books which can be used at various times by all of the schools. A separate library in each school would limit the variety of books which could be purchased.

Space in the library building, which would be located across the street from the present school board administrative offices at 2335 Plaza del Amo, would also be used for a large collection of education records, film strips, movies, and other types of instructional materials.

Auxiliary Services Planned
Auxiliary services, such as viewing rooms for teachers, and consultation rooms, would also be in the new building.

"This may seem like a large expenditure," Dr. J. H. Hull, superintendent of schools, declared. "However, when you consider that we do not have to build libraries in individual schools nor hire the additional personnel to take charge of each one, it is actually a saving."

Some schools do have traveling libraries which are supported and manned by PTAs, but the School Board does not pay for these.

Facilities Cramped

Present district library facilities are quite cramped, being located in the administrative offices. A "market basket" system is used in the library in which a teacher can browse through the books using a market basket to check out the materials to need. If teachers prefer they may order books over the phone, and the books are delivered each afternoon to the individual schools.

$30 Taken From Pants

Someone stole $30 from pants which were hanging in his room, Harry Lee Blaisdell told sheriff's deputies Saturday.

Blaisdell, who lives in a hotel at 24329 Narbonne Ave., reported that the theft had been made while he was away from his room.

Life Span

Woman live about three years longer than men, according to present statistics.

Party Crashers Beat Brothers

Two brothers were brutally beaten by a gang of hoodlums who crashed a party here last Saturday, according to police.

John Holmstedt, 15, and George Holmstedt, 17, both of 1407 Beech Ave., were taken to Harbor General Hospital by Wright's Ambulance for treatment of cuts and bruises inflicted by members of the gang.

The mob of more than 20 youths tore the front door from the hinges to enter the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller at 2426 W. 238th St., where a teen-age party was in progress.

The marauders, believed to be from the Huntington Park vicinity, fled at the approach of police who had been called by neighbors.

Some of the gang earlier had come to the Miller home and left, apparently to get reinforcements, when denied admittance.
