"Share Your Talents" Movement Is Presented by Riviera Mother

By ELEANOR GILBERT

A new cooperative movement, a movement of the sharing and teaching of skills among qualified mothers to each other's offspring might very well have its beginning in the person and efforts of Jan (Mrs. Laurence Dailey), 179 Via los Miradores, Hollywood Riviera.

Jan, the mother of five, is teaching a children's basic art course in drawing and painting at her home on Saturday mornings. She is looking for other mothers who have special skills in dramatics, music, foreign languages or dancing who would be willing to teach these specialties to each other's children on an exchange basis.

"Children need to explore many different creative fields and to have the chance to select one or more as a satisfying way, constructively, of expressing themselves," Jan declared. She believes that mothers also need opportunity for expression. By drawing on the talents and professional experience they had before marriage, then both the children and the mothers have a chance to fulfill these needs.

Jan was born outside of Chicago, but lived most of her life in Indiana where she also received her education. She had always had her mind on becoming a scientist, perhaps even a doctor. But while in high school, her thumbnail sketches of her classmates and teachers attracted so much attention, her art teacher urged her to learn more about bone and muscle structure as possible preparation for doing portrait work.

Although she took a number of art courses in high school and college, she concentrated on science and biology. She received her B.S. and M.S. degrees from Purdue University. She is also a member of Sigma Xi, the national research honorary society. Before she graduated, she was the first woman in the country to be accepted in CAA's collegiate program for training pilots. She married Laurence Dailey, who is also a Purdue graduate with B.S. and M.S.

degrees in chemical engineering and a B.S. degree in electrical engineering, in June 1940. Jan taught one year in Purdue as a graduate student in biology. During the summer she went to the John Herron Art Institute, in Indianapolis. Both she and her husband held private pilot's licenses.

While still in college she continued to sketch and do caricatures of her classmates. Jan began to do children's portraits when she was athletic instructor at a girls' camp.

Her interest in children has extended to her children: They have 15 pigeons, some white rats, hamsters, guppies, chameleon lizards and snakes. Louis, 11, created considerable unscheduled excitement at his sister Gail's 12th birthday party. He introduced his pet gopher snake to all the guests. The other children, Laurie, 9; Martin, 7, and even Ralph, aged 2, display great interest and affection for all the Lord's little creatures, spiders and worms included.

Jan thinks it's a good idea for a girl to be interested in something she can carry on after she is married, such as piece of sculpture. In this week's feature story Mrs. Dailey presents a plan for all mothers of the area asking that each share her talents with the children of the vicinity. She asks that all who know languages, music, handicrafts or other arts spend some time with the children so that all may have one of the arts, or teaching. "Teaching is particularly good, because after all, basically that's what a mother is — a teacher." So suiting word to deed, Jan began to do portraits of her own children. Soon there was a demand to paint the portraits of other people's children.

Her interest in children has involved her as co-leader of Girl Scout Troop 113, sponsor of the Methodist Church nursery, and teacher of art and ceramics to children in the neighborhood. Besides her weekly children's class on Saturday, an adult class in portrait painting meets in her studio on Wednesday morning.

Active in the South Bay Community Arts Association, she sponsored an outdoor art exhibit and did sidewalk sketching with a Parisian flavor. She works in oils, charcoal and pastels. She will be sketching portraits at the Newton School PTA Carnival the afternoon of Oct. 31.

CITY OF HOPE BENEFIT SCHEDULED FOR NOV. 12

Mrs. Agnes Wright and Mrs. Aris Rice are planning an evening project for Nov. 12 to honor the 44th year of City of Hope. A personal project to raise funds, it will feature "Table Fashions" by California Hand Prints, with Mrs. Virginia Thompson as commentator. Wonderful new designs for table linens and napkins for the approaching holiday season, beginning with Thanksgiving, will be shown on the stage of the Woman's clubhouse of Redondo Beach, 400 S. Broadway. Ideas and effects for gracious entertaining will prevail.

After the showing, bridge and canasta will be played. Starting at 8 p.m. refreshments will be served with Mrs. Joseph Moodie and Miss Virginia Kurtz assisting.

Mrs. E. P. Ketchum will have charge of paid table reservations and Mmes. V. J. Coverstone and Ross Dorsett will receive as hostesses.

There will be several door prizes from California Hand Prints.

Mrs. Wright, a charter member of the South Bay chapter of City of Hope, will turn in proceeds from the affair for the January roll call at the Ambassador Hotel to the local chapter.

For reservations call Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Robert Stone,

CDA Slates Many Events At Meeting
At their October business meeting, members of Court St. Catherine, Catholic Daughters of America voted to participate in the Cardinal's Christmas party and the American Field Service International Scholarship.

It was also reported that Mrs. Frank Weston, social welfare chairman and several court members gave a party for the older women at Harbor General hospital on Oct. 12. They are also planning a Halloween party on Oct. 30 for the children at the hospital.

On Nov. 4 there will be a mass celebrated at St. Vibia's Cathedral for all deceased members of the Catholic Daughters of America to be followed by a breakfast at the Clark Hotel. Mrs. Joseph Terkman, grand regent, gave her report on the district meeting.

The court will stage a Halloween party Oct. 29. Games will be played and refreshments will be served.
Co-hostesses for this party and for the business meeting are Mrs. Don Cowden and Mrs. William Korchenko and a committee, Mrs. Gertrude Fredericks, Mrs. Florence Turner and Mrs. Leonard Young. All members and guests are urged to attend the party in costume.

The board meeting with 12 members present was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Moore, 21021 Shearer St.

Y-Teens Sell Stock for Trip Expense

Y-Teens are selling stock certificates to raise money to send a representative to Y-Teen National Conference to be held in Washington, D.C., and New York Nov. 11-17. Y-Teen Interclub Council announced that the stock would be available through the YWCA. Each share of stock sold entitles the club or organization purchasing it to a talk at a meeting about the delegate's experiences at the conference. The delegate is being selected this week from the applications of girls who have demonstrated leadership in their Y-Teen clubs.

The delegate will attend the annual National World Fellowship Service at the Washington Cathedral, have a grand tour of the capital, study various government departments, and celebrate the 75th anniversary of Y-Teens. On Nov. 15 the whole conference group of over 300 will entrain for New York City where they will visit the United Nations, hear briefings, and hold a workshop on bringing the conference home.

Clubs and organizations are invited to have a part in sending a girl to this conference, which is "spotlighting youth's role in national and world affairs."

Entertains
Arrangements of chrysanthemums in the autumn shades decorated the home of Mrs. J. Parke Montague, 1328 Beech Ave. last Friday when she entertained her club at a bridge luncheon.

Talies and favors were in the Halloween motif on the small tables where luncheon was served. At the close of an afternoon of bridge the first went to Mrs. Burton Easley, second to Mrs. Cam Blankley and consolation to Mrs. Phyllis Klunk.

Club members attending were Mmes. W. E. Grubbs, Philip Halloran, Walter Levy, Robert Triplitt; and Mrs. William Garrity was a guest.

Mrs. Triplitt will entertain the club in two weeks.

DINNER PARTY
Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Fossum are entertaining several relatives at a dinner party today at their home 1621 Cota. Their guests are Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Knopper of Lennox, and Mrs. Gladys Underwood and Miss Hilda King of Pasadena.

LAST-MINUTE DETAILS . . . for the Halloween dance to be given by the Torrance Camp of Royal Neighbors on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30, at the Woman's club, 14422 Engracia, are being talked over by (from left) Pat Young, Selma Norris, George Jennings and Roy Snow. McDaniels' orchestra will furnish the music for dancing.

Hi-Toppers To Install

Hi-Toppers Y-Teen club is making plans for the installation of new officers on Oct. 30 at a Lomita restaurant. The mothers of the girls will be special guests. Janet Sanders will make the welcome address.

New officers to be installed are: Rachel Hogan, president; Ginny Sandstrom, vice president; Joyce Cannon, secretary; Madelyn Hensley, treasurer; Gay Maupin, chaplain; Audrey Nicksick, reporter-historian.

These new officers will succeed Janet Sanders, president; Gay Maupin, vice president; Claudia Smith, secretary; Ginny Sandstrom, chaplain; Rachel Hogan, reporter-historian.

Arts-Crafts Club Shown Europe Films

The rumpus room at the home of Mrs. Ludwig Miller, 1317 Beech Ave. was festively decorated in the Halloween theme last Friday evening for the meeting of the Arts and Crafts Club.

Highlighting the evening's entertainment was the showing of colored slides of Europe by Mrs. Oscar Fossum, who with Dr. Fossum, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, Mrs. Florence Childs and Mrs. Hazel Ward spent four months abroad this summer.

Mrs. Fossum shared her experiences with the club members as she showed the films.

After the interesting program, the group spent some time on leatherwork after which the hostess served refreshments. An artistic Halloween birthday cake for club members was served with ice cream. The cake was baked by Mrs. Ethel Peverly.

Attending the affair were: Mmes. Leah Arterburn, Mabel Banks, Rolla Bever, Cora Bohrer, Helen Carpenter, Florence Childs, Lela Evelyn, Ruth Hardin, Mae Jones, Ruth Kilgore, Mary McDonald, Emily Middleton, Bettina Miller, Helen Miller, Addie Parks, Frances Snodgrass and Hazel Fossum.

The club will be entertained on Nov. 16 by Mrs. Bettina Miller and Mrs. Florence Childs in the rumpus room at the home of Mrs. Frances Snodgrass.

"I've lost 55 pounds and 81 inches and you can too!"

"I am Mildred Parrino. I weigh 125 pounds and am a perfect size 12. To me those words are sheer magic for recently I weighed 180 and had the shape of a sack of meal. From my earliest infancy I was a 'plump' of a child and never had hope of being thin. Then I read about Stauffer System. My trial visit and figure analysis convinced me that here, at long last, was the solution to my problem. Now, after four pleasant months, I have lost 55 pounds without ever looking haggard or drawn. It's been a dream! You, too, can have a lovelier figure. Call Stauffer today.
