

People and Places

In a recent survey the question was asked: "What is your idea of the nicest way to celebrate a special occasion?" The almost unanimous answer was "to have dinner at a real nice restaurant."

Eating out for many people is a regular event. They dine at their favorite restaurants on an average of once a week. Occasionally they research other eating establishments looking for that something different that has made certain cafes nationally famous. For most people, eating out can only be arranged on rare occasions. It becomes a very special occasion, one that they may have looked forward to for many days or even weeks. No matter into which category you may fall, the City and Surf area offers a wide selection of fine restaurants and supper clubs from which you may freely choose.

What makes eating out an event? Restaurants and psychologists are agreed that pleasant, well appointed surroundings are almost as important as the excellence of the menu. These surroundings and appointments may vary from the ultra-elegant to the frontier-chuck wagon motif. But they are in accord on the one point—they contribute to the relaxation and well being of the patron.

People and Places is devoted to helping regular diners-out to discover new and different adventures and to assist the occasional special event diners to make a happy selection for their evening "on the town."

If you plan to take the entire family to dinner, from toddler to teen, we heartily recommend the Villa Capri, on Redondo Beach Blvd., just east of Crenshaw. Specializing in Italian cuisine the Villa Capri offers another attraction, the Chuck Wagon. From the Chuck Wagon you can have a prime rib dinner, all you can eat, for $1.95. You just can't miss on a proposition of this sort. The recently re-modeled Villa Capri is a picturesque spot and the service is superb. Jim Arrizatti is the manager and he is assisted by his lovely wife and daughters. You can enjoy your favorite beverage from the bar and their is music for your dining entertainment each evening.

The Windjammer and BBQ-Roundup in the Village are especially delighted to have the entire family move in on them. The Windjammer serves broiled steak dinner for $1.10 that you just can't beat. This makes the tab for the entire family pretty painless and yet the food is tops and the environment just what you would expect from the nautical name.

The B-B-Q Roundup is the delight of City and Surf barbecue lovers. All kinds and varieties of top barbecue from sandwiches to complete dinners are offered. And you can come just as you are. Frank Zarkos is proud of the informality of his BBQ Roundup a real western flavored eatery. Bring a good appetite.

In downtown Torrance, Capri's continues to please the appetites of City and Surf gourmets. Your favorite beverage from the bar, a wide selection of exquisite sea food entrees, or tantalizing meats from the broiler and, of course, the wonderful Italian cuisine has helped make Capri's a by-word in eating adventure.

Down Long Beach way at First and Alamitos Sts., Vician Laird's popular supper club continues to be one of the City and Surf's most popular fun spots. Top quality cuisine, danceable rhythms, and your favorite beverages are sure to make your visit to Vician Laird's a sure fire hit. And the remarkable thing, no cover, no minimum at any time, and no wonder happy patrons keep returning with the whole family.

Maybe you want to commemorate an anniversary or a birthday in a little more sophisticated manner and have come up with a baby sitter for the occasion. The intimate atmosphere, and wonderful food at the Open Hearth have combined to make this recent addition to City and Surf bistros a much talked about place. There is always a friendly group around the popular piano bar, if you like the company. Or you can just relax and make small talk at one of the cozy tables while waiting for your steak to be prepared. Don't miss the Open Hearth, you'll be glad you took our advice.

Ding How's in downtown Torrance is just the place for the family to enjoy some of that wonderful Oriental Food. Attractively priced, expertly prepared and thoroughly enjoyed. This is what you'll say after a dinner at Ding How's.

For good eating all the time, morning, noon and night, drop in and visit Charley at Daniel's Cafe. Charley has a cheerful word for everyone and a fine meal from breakfast through dinner, or a late night—early morning snack. Zim's in Lomita offers nothing but good solid home cooked food and the best pie that money can buy.

Another very good bet for the entire family is the real Hawaiian Luau at the Bowl-O-Drome. A real taste treat—all you can eat for $1.50 and special price for children under 12.

Keeping water out in the rain

MASONRY WALLS made of brick, stone, or concrete have long stood the test of time. But today, they can be made even better with a coating of silicone water repellents. These amazing materials prevent damaging rainwater from entering the countless tiny pores or openings in masonry structures.

Now, silicone water repellents provide the answer. Brushed or sprayed on the surface, they line—not seal—the pores in masonry. Even heavy rain driven by hurricane winds cannot break through... yet, because the pores are not sealed, moisture from within can evaporate freely.

When the water freezes after penetrating, it can cause spalling—cracks off small pieces. And, if it seeps all the way through to the inside of a building, paint peels... woodwork warps... plaster stains and cracks.

The people of Union Carbide produce silicones for other uses, too... automobile and furniture polishes, lubricants, electrical insulation, and new rubber-like products... helping bring more and better things for all of us.
