Marine Magazine to Cover Activities of Local Men

Marine Reserve Maj. Henry Fink Jr., of 3916 Newton St., said that activities of the squadrons attached to the Marine training detachment at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station near Long Beach will be featured in the January issue of Leatherneck magazine.

The local Marine spokesman, who is attached to Marine Reserve Fighter Squadron 241 at the air station, explained that the professional magazine is distributed throughout the world to Marines, their families and through newsstand sales and covers the global activities of Leathernecks in peace and war.

Story of Reserves
The story of Marine Air Reserves from throughout Southern California and Arizona will be told. It will hit magazine stands Jan. 1.

The article was written especially for the Leatherneck by Capt. Jack Lewis, a Marine reserve officer, who is a professional writer in civilian life, and who has been associated with the Los Alamitos units in the past, making him fully familiar with the training program.

Four units, Marine Air Reserve Group 2, Marine Fighter Squadrons 241 and 123, and Marine Air Control Squadron 18 train one week end month.

New Committee On Taxes Slated By State Group

By RICHARD RICHARDS
State Senator

The furor raised by Los Angeles County taxpayers when they received their tax bills this year has understandably not abated yet. Although exasperation is generally evidenced at this time of year, the usual relaxation of public indignation has not followed.

Further, there seems to be a great deal of confusion present regarding responsibility for the raise, and perhaps of first importance is the need for shedding clear light on the entire subject.

It is in the hope of securing some clarification of the issues raised so violently in the past several weeks that I have called a meeting of the State Interim Committee on Metropolitan Areas, of which I am chairman, for Dec. 23 in the State Building here in Los Angeles.

Committee Asked
In the last session of the Legislature, I requested the implementation of an interim committee which could inquire into the problems arising from the exploding growth of our urban centers, and could, in the words of the resolution which created the committee, study and analyze "all matters relating to local government as they affect metropolitan areas."
