BEST BUYS FOR THE WEEK

In Torrance Markets

NEWS FROM FIELDS AND ORCHARDS
ARTICHOKES, beautiful ones, are here. Mostly from the Castroville area.
ASPARAGUS. Increasing amounts of improving quality. Harvest stretches from Imperial Valley to Sacramento Valley.

KUMQUATS from San Diego County; supplies of PAPAYAS and PINEAPPLES from Hawaii; and NECTARINES from Chili... the other side of the equator where summer is ending. STRAWBERRIES from many California fields.

CABBAGE is maturing so fast that we're sharing it with the rest of the nation. Carloads are moving out.
CARROTS, more and more of them expected for at least another month. Fine quality.
CAULIFLOWER, one of our most abundant vegetables.

CDA Court Will Hear Speaker

CELERY is in very heavy supply and some retailers offer excellent "buys." Many ways to use it. It adds the necessary "crunch" to salads and the just-right flavor to so many cooked foods.
LETTUCE AND OTHER SALAD GREENS
Warm weather encourages salad menus. A wide selection of greens. Have variety.
POTATOES, that vegetable which rounds out the meal. Markets have "specials" to interest the thrifty shopper.

A speaker from the Braille Institute of America, explaining the work in behalf of the blind, is the program planned for the March 23 meeting of Court St. Catherine, Catholic Daughters of America, it was announced at the organization's business meeting Monday evening. Presently used techniques for the blind, including the raised-type literature (Braille) will be included in the talk, and a blind pianist will perform, according to Mrs. Richard Ban, program chairman.

TOMATOES. Although this is not exactly "tomato season" you'll find good ones in market. Prices very considerably.

The program will be given at Nativity parish hall on Cota avenue at 8 p.m. on March 23 and all interested parties are most welcome.

As a consumer do you have any influence on type of foods offered in markets?
Yes. You help to control the markets by the purchases you make. Each dollar you spend in the market is a vote cast for the foods you bought. The buying you do today shapes the pattern for what will be available tomorrow. Your intelligent buying not only gives you better food for your money now... but it promises you more of what you want in the future.

Mrs. Laurence Derouin, grand regent, presided at the business meeting at which reports of the various chairmen were heard. Included was a report from Mrs. Harry Hamilton, chairman for the annual poetry contest sponsored at Nativity school, and an outline of the World Mission program under the chairmanship of Miss Kathryn Shagnessy.

APPLES, AVOCADOS, ORANGES, LEMONS, GRAPEFRUIT, TANGERINES and RHUBARB, all abundant. If you are interested in some of the less plentiful items you'll find CANTALOUPS and WATERMELONS from Mexico;

Mrs. F. J. McDonough of Los Angeles, past president of Camp Teresita Pines, who was a guest of the court, gave a history of the camp which has been sponsored by the C.D.A. courts in the Los Angeles area since 1928.
Mrs. John V. Murray was hostess chairman, only coffee and tea being served as a Lenten observance.
