

REHEARSING COLLEGE PLAY... are Olivia Grayne, in wheelchair, and Margery Ruth, standing, who open tonight in the El Camino production "Night Must Fall," which will continue at the Campus tomorrow and Sunday evenings at 8:30 o'clock.

'Night Must Fall' Opens Tonight At El Camino

The accent is on accents in tonight's El Camino College production of "Night Must Fall," which opens a three-night run in the campus theatre at 8:30 p.m.

Not only is the cast faced with mastering British dialects ranging from Cosmopolitan English to Cockney, but the role of the leading character, Danny, played by Joseph D'Agosta calls for a Welsh accent.

Deviation slightly from the script of Emyln Williams, the El Camino production has deleted certain British colloquial expressions, and dated historical references.

Set designer Leslie Thomas has attempted to capture on canvas the musty atmosphere of an old cottage in Sheperley Forest called for by the script.

Admission is 50c for non-students.

Local Singers Present Opera In Hollywood

A group of local entertainers known as The Menotti Singers, who premiered locally in the opera "The Medium" at the Chapel Players theater last season, will open in Hollywood tomorrow night in a five-week-end run of "The Medium" at the Cabaret Concert Theater, 4212 Sunset Blvd.

Star of the Jon Carlo Menotti opera is Nadine Nichols. Other area members of the cast include Helene Seaton, Rick Winter, Patricia Coates, Midge Smith, Lillah Beauchamp, John Bennett, and Lee Smith.

"The Telephone" is being offered on the same bill as a curtain-raiser.

Ellis Owen Gains Note in Metal Field

A magazine article, a talk, and participation in an important panel discussion recently came in rapid succession for Ellis Owen, 17701 Faldia Ave., a Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Guided Missile Division engineer.

Owen's first technical paper this year appeared in the February 12 issue of "Iron Age" magazine when an article titled "How to Judge the Quality of Aluminum Hard Coatings" appeared under his by-line.

Next, he was scheduled to appear as a panel member and discuss "Welding Problems Concerning Ultra High Strength Steel Thin-Wall Pressure Vessels" under the general title of "Effects of Advances in Fabrication Techniques" at yesterday's session of the American Society for Metals, 11th Western Metal Exposition and Congress.

Then, he was asked to present a more detailed version of his "Iron Age" article before the Society for Nondestructive Testing group at tomorrow's conference session at the Ambassador Hotel.

A graduate of Purdue University, School of Chemistry, Owen majored in chemical and metallurgical engineering. He has been engaged in the field of materials and processes for the past 25 years, and has been with Firestone's Guided Missile Division in Los Angeles almost three years.
