MRS. RONALD LEE COLVIN

... On Honeymoon

(Portrait by Seeman)

Lorene Middleton Is Now Mrs. Ronald Lee Colvin

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lee Colvin, who were married in a mid-afternoon ceremony on March 22 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Redondo, are now honeymooning in northern California. Mrs. Colvin is the former Lorene Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plez Middleton, 26999 Dapplegray Lane, Rolling Hills.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Colvin, Pomona.

As the 150 wedding guests gathered, Mrs. Melvin Tully at the organ, accompanied Mr. Tully who sang "Hawaiian Wedding Song," "How Do I Love Thee," "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The Rev. Paul C. Cox officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony which took place before a flower banked altar.

Mr. Middleton escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She wore a Cahill gown of white silk organza. Appliqued flowers decorated the off-shoulder neckline on the empire bodice. The bouffant skirt, which fell into a chapel train, was encircled by rows of hand tucking. A double pearl tiara held the illusion veil and the bride carried a cascade of white hyacinths and lilies-of-the-valley atop a white Bible. The Bible was a gift of her late grandmother, Mrs. M. C. Bosworth.

Miss Nancy Sloan served as the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Trudy Ralph, Carol Rawlings, Clara Lee Paiso and Deanne Boen. Their gowns were of Dior blue organza and each wore a short matching veil. Their bouquets were of pink hyacinths and pink rosebuds.

Peggy Crane in pink silk organza was the flower girl and the rings were carried by

To Organize Y-Teen Club For Juniors

All girls in the seventh and eighth grades in Torrance who are interested in forming a junior Y-Teen club are invited to attend an organization rally Monday, April 6, at 3:45 at YWCA, 2320 Carson St. The new junior Y-Teen group is open to any girl regardless of race, religion or creed.

Activities for the group will be varied and interesting. Fun projects will include bus trips to various places such as Disneyland, and Hollywood, barbecues, and others. A service project will be planned. This activity will be doing something for a hospital, helping a needy family, or other community service.

For further information call the Y and plan to attend this meeting.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Only Your Good Wishes

Dear Readers: Here's a switch. Ann Landers has a problem. Can you help me? For the past several months readers have been enclosing money with requests for advice. Of course when there's a name and address we return the money. But when there is no address, it creates a problem.

The advice offered through this column is a public service from your newspaper. Those of you who want personal help through the mails can obtain it without obligation by simply enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

We appreciate the thoughts that accompany the dollars, dimes and quarters . . . but please we want only your good wishes.—ANN LANDERS.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if you play bridge but I think you can give me some advice whether or not you know the game.

My husband considers himself a card genius and I admit he's pretty good, but he's NOT infallible. The other evening we invited another couple in for bridge. They are both experts. My husband has a habit of overbidding his hand and I have to watch this. He made a reckless bid of six spades and all I said was "either you're crazy or I'm blind." He gave me a look that almost blistered the paint off the wall and replied "Shut your mouth and play the hand."

We didn't make it and he was furious. After they left he said "I'll never play cards with you again." I think I'm the one who should be mad, not him. What do YOU think?—SLAMMED GRANDLY.

Dear Slammed: Card fights produce an ideal atmosphere for all sorts of unrelated trouble. Fixing the blame solves nothing. There are 52 good reasons why you should not play cards with your husband. Throw in the deck permanently.

Dear Ann: What's with this "companionship business"? If you have a spare moment will you enlighten me?

When a girl goes with a fellow he can talk the tin ear off a dead mule. Her old man has to practically throw him out of the parlor every night so the dear sweet thing can get her rest.

Then . . . wedding bells: the scene shifts: Housework, groceries to lug, babies, diapers, dishes, mending, ironing, scrubbing, cooking and a hundred other things that make a house a home.

The boy friend enters. Stock Greeting: "What's for supper?" No conversation during the meal, just a few grunts and groans. If the meat is too well done he says so. Sometimes you hope it is, just so you can

MRS. D. T. BALLARD
... Recites Vows
(Doug Kilgour)

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ballard Honeymoon in Mexico City

Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Ballard have returned from their honeymoon in Mexico City and are now at home in Redondo. Mrs. Ballard is the former Jacquetta Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Devere Baker of Redondo and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ballard, also of Redondo, are parents of the bridegroom.

The couple were married on March 21 in an evening ceremony at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Paul Cox officiating. Mr.

Baker walked to the altar with his daughter and gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of bridal satin with a great skirt curved as a petal and folded into cartridge pleats to form a chapel train. Re-embroidered Alencon lace, seed pearls and sequins accented the empire bodice. A flat headpiece of lace and pearls held the illusion veil, and the bride carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Tamra Baker of Utah, wearing mauve satin, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Sheryl Jensen, Sharon Knight, Irys Winans and Carol Ballard.

Bill Lettunich was best man, and ushers were Joe Corsaro, Lynne Frantz, Dick Garrett, Donald Schultz and Barry Hamilton. Mrs. Elizabeth Sokoloff was organist and Mr. Burnett Ferguson was soloist.

The 400 guests were entertained at a reception at La Venta Inn. Miss Thelma Mercuris was in charge of the guest book. The bride attended Utah State University for two years and is now studying at Long Beach State.

Her husband attended Long Beach State and is an optician in the Hollywood Riviera.

To Germany

Mrs. Sandra Snook, who has been residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lehr, 20845 Brighton, left on the Scandinavian Airlines last Friday for Frankfurt, Germany. She will join her husband, Victor Snook, who is stationed there with the United States Army.

MISS JOY CALLAWAY
