tion, which she does two nights a week.

I belong to a service club and we play cards (for fun, not money) after the weekly meetings. If I'm not home when my wife decides I should be, she calls the club and orders me to leave at once. If I try to finish the game she calls again. It's very embarrassing. How should I handle this?—H.B.

Dear H.B.: Inform your wife you'll make a deal—YOU won't bother her night school if she'll let you alone at the club. Midnight is a reasonable curfew. Tell her not to expect you home before then on meeting nights. A "doorman" has no special gender. It can be male or female. Get off the floor, Mister.

Dear Ann, I'm 31 and have been bleaching my hair blonde for almost 10 years. I was a natural blonde in my younger days but when my hair began to get darker, I decided to lighten it and keep it that way.

Recently several good friends have suggested my hair is artificial looking. I'd like to let it go back to normal as I'm tired of keeping it up, but I'm afraid of what my boy friend will say when he sees how dark it really is. He knows I do "a little something" but not THIS much. Please advise me.—JOAN

Dear Joan: Instead of letting your hair grow back to its natural color and suffer through the zebra stages, ask your operator to tint it a shade darker every few weeks. It won't cost any more than the goodlooks routine and it's a subtle and painless way to return to Mother Nature's own hue.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing your request, 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the TORRANCE HERALD, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)
