The guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald De Cuir were Capt. Harald Doehring and Mr. Dieter Schulz-Sembten from Frankfurt, Germany; the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Turner were Capt. Park Hung Soon and Capt. Kim Tick Han from Korea; and the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Boylan was Capt. Fritz Waller from Landsburg-Lech, Germany. The guests of the De Cuirs and the Boylans were picked up early in the afternoon and shown the areas in which they were most interested, such as North American Aviation, the airport, a supermarket, etc., and all of the guests were served dinner and spent the evening in interesting conversation. These Juniors were the first to show these men a section of American home life.

bottles of paste, almost-new pencils and erasers, carbon paper and bonded stationery by the pound.

We were taught "to waste is to sin." What is there in American culture that seems to smile at wanton disregard for property if people don't pay for it themselves? Can you reply?—MISS SWISS

Dear Swiss Miss: We Americans are vastly more wasteful than our brothers and sisters in other parts of the world. Perhaps it's because for so long we've had more. Add to this the adage, "That which we get for nothing has no value"—and you have a good answer to your question.

If it's true that the employees with whom you work throw away almost-new materials, someone from "up front" (like the purchasing agent) should be told. He will be happy to have a friendly talk with "the sinners." Suggest it.

Dear Ann: My husband and I have been quarreling since last Summer. Please settle this argument.

I have worked for 20 years out of the 26 we've been married. We pool our money, and everything is "ours." Almost every year we take a trip to visit his folks. Last summer I had a big fight with his brother. He said he'd never go home again to visit if I'm there. He lives 200 miles away. We live over 1700. I figure he can go home almost any time.

My husband just told me he wants to make the trip without me this year. Do you think it's right for him to spend our $400 to go alone? I get along fine with everyone in the family except this one brother. My husband went so far as to say if I went he would stay home—and this is final. Please give me your frank opinion.—MYL DRED

Dear Mylred: Your husband is behaving like a child with a high fever. You should make the trip together. If his brother wants to stay away that's HIS business. But why let him wreck your vacation plans? Tell your husband YOU plan to make the trip and that you hope he'll accompany you. Go alone if he insists on being mullish, and let both brothers behave like iddy biddy babies if they want to.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Copyright, 1959, Field Enterprises, Inc.
