

56 Courses Slated In Adult School

Fifty-six classes, ranging from boat handling to American literature will be offered in Torrance Adult School for the spring semester starting Feb. 3, according to Principal Victor U. Kilburn.

Persons 18 or older who are not attending high school may attend classes, which have no fees except for textbooks and class materials. Students may register at the first class they attend. High school credit is offered, with General Educational Development tests available for partial credit for the diploma.

Classes offered include:
