Profession as A Balloonist Nets TV Trip

A 74-year-old former balloonist and parachute jumper recently returned from a vacation in Hawaii—a trip awarded her for her interesting background.

Mrs. Cordie White, 2117 Torrance Blvd., won the two weeks paid vacation for two, as the result of an interview on television with Hank Weaver. Weaver had requested letters telling of interesting past experiences and Mrs. White's daughter, Mrs. Fay Hund of Huntington Park wrote, telling of her mother's former experiences.

Mrs. White toured the country appearing at state and county fairs as a balloonist. After ascending two miles in the hot air-filled balloon, she would drop over the side and float down under her homemade unbleached muslin parachute.

She also appeared in the traditional "shot from a cannon" act.

Sailing to Hawaii on the liner Lelanai was Mrs. White and Mrs. Hund.
