EYE-CARE RULES FOR TV VIEWING OUTLINED

ROY O. GILBERT, M.D.
County Health Officer

Suggestions to television fans to enable them to avoid eye strain have been advanced by the American Medical Assn. and other organizations concerned with the maintenance of good sight.

Television itself does not produce eye strain but, since it requires "all the components of the visual act," many people complain of eye fatigue after a short period. Those persons with eye defects are particularly susceptible to this fatigue and wearers of bi-focal glasses may even find it necessary to have special lenses prescribed for the proper distance.

* * *

TO AID IN THE elimination of eye strain and increase enjoyment of the program, the following suggestions have been offered:

1. It is usually better to have a large screen rather than a small one because it allows for clearer vision at a greater distance and gives a larger visual angle.

2. The nearer the screen is viewed head-on, the better. Too much of an angle produces distortion and make co-ordination difficult.

3. A distance of 10 feet or more away from the screen, would, in general, be better than a shorter distance provided the size of the room would permit.

4. Avoid both intense darkness and bright lights in the room. Soft, indirect lighting is preferable.

5. Sun glasses should not be worn.

6. There is no definite time limit for watching television but excessively long periods of gazing at the screen should be avoided.

7. In case of eye discomfort, have eyes examined by a competent specialist and follow his advice.

* * *

THERE ARE A number of excellent educational programs on television for children. It is well for parents to sit in on them long enough to see what character of entertainment is being shown. Televiewing is not the thing for children to do when the sun is shining and they should be outdoors, but it can provide good entertainment during the early evening hours and be tremendously informative as well. It is part of a parent's responsibility to see that it is and that the children's vision, as well as their own, is safe-guarded.

A pamphlet on correct television viewing will be mailed to anyone who sends a card of request to the Division of Public Health Education, Los Angeles County Health Department, 241 North Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12.

Rabbi To Depict Iron Curtain Jewish Life

Rabbi Kraus, former chief rabbi of West Hungary, is able to give first hand information on this topic. Friday evening services begin every week at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend and join in the Oneg Shabats following the services.

WHAT'S DOING

A. S. Pyle, your Telephone Manager in Torrance

The long pole in the hands of this telephone man looks like just the thing for fishing. But it's not a fish he's after; it's trouble. He's giving that cable a "bubble bath," spraying it with a gummy, liquid solution. If the cable is damaged, air will escape through the cracks and form bubbles along the cable. And that's our cue to make repairs swiftly, so your calls won't be affected. In this and many other ways, we keep close tabs on your service. This keeps your phone working more dependably—makes your service better.

These folks have their eyes on a bargain—a whole list of bargains, in fact. They're looking over the out-of-town telephone rates on the inside cover of their phone book. It's interesting to see how many places you can call—for so little money. Why don't you check the sample rates in your directory. And surprise an out-of-town friend or relative with a call tonight.
