

"Flea Market" Is Slated by Juniors

Members of the Torrance Junior Woman's Club are busy preparing for their "Flea Market" bazaar to be held Saturday, August 29, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Torrance Civic Auditorium. The entire proceeds from the project will be going toward the remodeling of the interior of the YMCA building in Torrance, which is the major philanthropy of the club.

All types of items will be presented for sale at the bazaar, including white elephants, children's rummage, small living plants, toys, patterns, small furniture, books, jewelry, cooking utensils, etc. Last year's Christmas cards will be sold at reduced prices, and orders will be taken for this year's selection of cards.

Restaurant ticket books, another main ways and means project, will also be on sale. Baked goods will be sold, as will coffee. Whole pies or cakes may also be purchased to take home.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. A. R. Felando. Her committee consists of Mrs. Charles Briner, Mrs. E. E. Logsdon, Mrs. Fred Murphy, Mrs. Don Carlson and Mrs. Robert Davis.

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"Flat Feet by the Ironing Board"

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't you stick to problems dealing with heart trouble and stay the heck out of matters involving bed sheets? When my husband read the column in which you told the woman to iron the sheets for her husband if it made him happy, he suggested I do the same. I'll bet that slob of mine never knew what a bed sheet was till I married him, and NOW he wants them ironed, thanks to you. Drop dead.—ROZ (Philadelphia)

Dear Ann: If that male old maid wants smooth sheets why doesn't he buy his wife an automatic dryer? The sheets come out soft as silk and it's easier than getting flat feet by the ironing board.—TESSIE R. (Atlanta)

Dear Ann: You should have told that big ox who wanted the luxury of silky sheets there's more to it than ironing. The fabric is of prime importance. If he wants to enjoy his bedtime like a millionaire, let him give his wife money to buy the ritzy kind. I could iron my cheap junk from now till doomsday and they'd still feel like sandpaper.—LOU (Little Rock)

Dear Ann: After your column on bed sheets my husband asked if I ironed ours and I said NO. He said it seemed like a simple thing to do for my family's comfort. I got out the board and told him to try it.

He monkeyed around for 30 minutes and never did get the corners straight. Then he burned his elbow on the iron and swore a purple streak. When I examined the "finished product" I found that he had scorched the sheet in two places. Thanks a heap.—B. J. (Louisville)

Dear Ann: Who irons sheets any more? I thought everyone in the world was on to the time-saving system of folding the sheets and putting them one at a time on the board. If you iron other things ON the sheets, they automatically become pressed in the process.—SMOOTHIE (San Bernardino, Calif.)

Dear Ann Landers: One of the most useful aspects of your column is that it gives people a chance to compare their own troubles with the troubles others are having.

That letter on bed sheets, for instance, I forgot women actually take pride in their homes. My wife sends everything to the laundry, serves TV dinners three nights a

Peggi Rynhart Is Now Mrs. Richard Ruffell

Torrance First Baptist Church, beautifully decorated with baskets of white blossoms and candles, was the setting last Saturday evening for the 8 o'clock wedding in which Miss Peggi Rynhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Rynhart, 1207 Hickory Ave., became the bride of Richard Ruffell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Ruffell, 2016 Carson St.

Mr. Rynhart escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was a radiant bride in her wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over French taffeta. The fitted bodice had a Sabrina neckline and long pointed sleeves. The full skirt was of lace and the chapel train fell from a bustle. The illusion fingertip veil was held by a white lace pillbox and the bride carried a bouquet of white orchids, white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Carolyn Mitchell served as the matron of honor. Her gown was of iridescent green taffeta with a cummerbund in contrasting shades of green. Her Colonial bouquet was of yellow roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Judi Barnette, Diane St. Martin, Grace Warde. Miss Judi Rynhart was the junior bridesmaid. They were all gowned in iridescent green taffeta and each carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses.

Little Barbara Jackson, wearing a white frock with green cummerbund and carrying a basket of yellow rose petals, was the flower girl.

The rings were carried by Ralph Swan.

David Ruffell stood as his brother's best man and ushers were Don Mitchell, Skip Smith and Jack Taylor.

Oscar Walton, organist, furnished the musical background, played the wedding marches, and accompanied Joe Hicks who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Because," and "I Love Thee."

The Rev. Morgan Gates officiated at the marriage ceremony. A reception followed at the church and Mrs. Kathryn Ruffell was in charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds are on a honeymoon in San Francisco.

The bride was graduated from Torrance High school in 1958 and a Salt Lake City, Utah, business college in 1959.

Her husband was graduated from Torrance High school in 1957 and is now a Junior at the University of Utah where he is a member of the varsity basketball team.

Missouri Guests

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McMullin, 1734 Watson Ave., have had as their guests for the past ten days, Mr. McMullin's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McMullin of Trenton, Mo., who left Monday for their home. They also visited another brother, Paul McMullin and family in Altadena.

During their visit, a birthday dinner for Mr. Lloyd McMullin was held here and the three couples visited Knott's Berry Farm, Disneyland and Farmers Market.

Club In Business For Charity Only

By BOB WILTON

When a business in Torrance is launched there is usually a ribbon-cutting with city dignitaries present. In the case of Alan Schwartz, 12, Scott Triplett, 10, Ken Brooks, 8, and Gary Brooks, 15, they went into business without fanfare.

The quartet, all Madrona students, took the first letter of their given names, put them together and named their club "Skag." Next they decided that their mission and reason for organization would be to raise money for some charitable groups. They chose the City of Hope and the Community Chest.

The boys unit built a clubhouse in the back yard of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Triplett, 3236 Eldorado. When the house was completed they held a meeting to figure ways and means for securing money for their contributions to the charities they had selected.

The Skag members decided to grow vegetables to sell in their neighborhood, to do odd jobs and turn their earnings over to the fund and to contribute their dues to these worthy causes. Before their first meeting was over they discarded the suggestion that they elect officers as they did not want politics to interfere with their activities—although Scott opens the meetings, "because the clubhouse is in his yard."

Business has been good for the Skags and since they launched their money-making campaign last spring they have $20 in their till. Part of it was secured after the HERALD photographer took their picture Monday afternoon. "I guess knowing we were to have our picture in the HERALD gave us more ambition," Scott said when making his financial report Tuesday.

Skag business is good business, as the City of Hope and Community Chest will no doubt verify when they receive their money from the Torrance club.
