Vets Center Gives Tips On GI Insurance

Veterans who expect to receive dividends sometime this year from their GI insurance policies, but have no need for emergency cash, were remiinded today by Veterans Servce Officer Bessie Slonecker that the dividend money can be put to other good uses to the veteran's own benefit.

The GI insurance policyholder may, for instance, write to the VA Insurance Center at Denver, Colorado, and ask that the dividends be held—with interest—as a credit to pay his monthly premium in case he fails to pay it before the end of the 31-day grace period.

Or he may want to direct the VA to use the dividend in paying premiums ahead of time, since the VA offers a discount on premiums paid three or more months ahead.

Holders of permanent plan GI insurance have an additional option which is not available to term policyholders. They may authorize the VA to hold dividends on deposit, with interest and subject to withdrawal at their request. If not withdrawn, the money—plus interest—will increase the value of the policy.

The interest under either the dividend deposit or the dividend credit option is taxable and must be reported annually on federal income tax returns, but the dividends themselves and all policy proceeds are not taxable.

GI insurance policyholders are also reminded of the importance of not letting their designated beneficiary list "get out of date." Marriages, divorces, births or deaths may have occurred since the veteran made out his beneficiary list, and the veteran may want to change it accordingly. It is vital that he so notify the VA, as the agency is required by law to pay insurance proceeds to the beneficiary of record, whether or not that person still is in any way connected with the veteran.

Service Officer Mrs. Slonecker says her office will be glad to assist veterans with any of their GI insurance problems or changes. The Service Office address is 1622 Gramercy Ave.
