Ann Landers

It isn't possible to do justice to your school work if you date during the week. Teenagers who date on school nights are always dead tired. They look it, and so do their grades. And P.S. The way to keep a boy interested is to give him LESS of your company than he wants. Get smart.

Dear Ann: My girl friend's father is 77 years of age. I'm 33, unmarried, and think he's a darling BUT—whenever I go to their home, he gets fresh and pinches me.

This man has been a widower for 13 years. I know he's lonesome, but I resent his actions all the same. He never gets out of line when his daughter is present, but the moment she goes to the kitchen he's right there.

Am I being stuffy? I wouldn't dream of telling her why I'd rather have her come to my home than go to hers but I hate to go over there. Please give me your opinion.—B FUDLED

Dear B: Your person belongs to YOU, and you should not have to put up with pinches from anyone—even if he IS 77 years old.

Of course you shouldn't mention this to your friend. Go over there only when you cannot avoid it. When your friend goes into the kitchen, go with her. Outsmart the old pincher and don't be alone with him for even a minute.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of their newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) Copyright, 1959, Field Enterprises, Inc.
