YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"Getting $500 Worth of Advice"

Dear Ann: We moved to this neighborhood two months ago and want to get along with the people next door. I know this is a trifling matter, but it's causing a lot of trouble. Please print the answer so THEY will see it.

We have two walnut trees in the backyard. The branches extend over the fence and some of the walnuts fall on to the neighbor's property. Do these fallen nuts belong to us or to the neighbor?—GONE NUTS.

Dear Gone: Your "trifling matter" took eight hours of research by one of the country's top law firms. You are getting $500 worth of advice for the price of this newspaper.

The man who owns the tree also owns the overhanging branches and the fruit or nuts from same.

Your neighbor may trim the branches that overhang his property if, in his judgment they constitute a nuisance. He may also pick up the fallen fruit or nuts. But he may NOT eat them, sell them or decorate his home with them. He can only throw them away.

If he decides to trim the overhanging branches he may not climb the tree or place a ladder against that tree without the permission of the owner, as this constitutes trespassing.

In brief, the man who owns the land on which the tree trunk stands, also owns all the fruits or nuts produced by that tree, and the neighbor may not use them for his benefit.

(P.S. I, too, must have Gone Nuts to get mixed up with this one. Next time I'll say "see a lawyer.")

Dear Ann Landers: My girl friend and I are both 16. We go out quite often with two brothers, 16 and 17 years old. They are nice but they have one small fault and we would like your advice.

After we get into a pizza parlor or a drive-in for a hamburger or even a drugstore for a soda, they pretend they are broke. This always happens AFTER we have ordered. Then they borrow money from us to pay the check. They never pay us back, which means we end up paying for ourselves and them, too.

My fellow has a part-time job ushering in a theater and his brother works in a super-market after school, so we know they have some money. Do they do this to be cute or are they just cheap skates? What is your advice?—GRAND RAPIDS TWO

Dear G.R.T.: What difference does it make WHY they do it? The fact is you girls are being made to look like fools and I suggest you find other friends.

If young boys are broke, it's no disgrace and even a Dutch (Continued on Page 14)

Holiday Party Juniors Relive Childhood At Club's Christmas Party

Torrance Ladies of the Elks held their annual Christmas dinner party for members and guests at the Hacienda Hotel on Tuesday evening, Dec. 8.

Tables were beautifully decorated in the traditional theme including miniature Christmas trees and tiny reindeer.

Highlight of the evening was the surprise visit of one of Santa's helpers, Mrs. Frank Jakubowski, wearing a red velvet suit with white trim. She supervised the distribution of many gifts among members.

Childhood memories were recalled Wednesday evening by the members of the Torrance Junior Woman's club as they viewed the Christmas skit presented by a group of members and heard the Christmas music sung by the club choral group.
