Sandra Stevens Is Mrs. T. E. Defouri

In a mid-afternoon ceremony, Dec. 19 at the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection in Hollywood Riviera, Miss Sandra Marie Stevens exchanged her wedding promises with Thomas Emil Defouri. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Jr., 209 Via Colorin, Palos Verdes. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Defouri, 517 S. Camino Real, Redondo Beach.

The bride was radiant as she came to the altar on the arm of her father, wearing a formal wedding gown of peau de soie and lace. The fitted bodice had long sleeves and a round neckline. The full peau de soie skirt fell into a train. The fingertip illusion veil cascaded from a pearl tiara.

The bride carried a white Bible topped by two white orchids.

Miss Jane Randall served as maid of honor. She wore a deep blue princess gown and carried a pink nosegay.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jessie McDonald and Mrs. C. J. Kring. Both were gowned in deep blue satin and each carried a pink nosegay.

Dale Defouri stood as his brother's best man and William

Baty and Greg Alexander were ushers.

Mrs. C. Rhygh, at the organ, played the wedding marches and furnished a musical background during the ceremony.

The Rev. Rhygh, pastor, conducted the vow exchange.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents where David Stevens was in charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds spent a honeymoon at Wrightwood.

The bride was graduated from Redondo High, Harbor College and the University of Oklahoma.

Her husband is a graduate of Redondo High and El Camino College.

Special guests here for the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Werenskiold, her aunt, Mrs. K. Cooks and Mr. and Mrs. Rossel Carlton, all from northern California.

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

Don't Make Any Apologies . . .

Dear Ann: I'm so embarrassed I could just die. The Brownie leader is moving out of town and she asked if I thought my mother would take over the job. I said yes. When she called my mother said NO. This makes me look like a fool and I am ashamed to go to the next meeting.

I am 10 years old and my three younger brothers can just about take care of themselves. They are 8, 4 and 3. My mother made up an excuse that she will do it when the kids are older. When they are older I will be out of Brownies. Please ask her to think it over.

HIDING OUT
Dear Hiding: Your mother knows better than I what she can handle. It sounds to me as if she's got her hands full. Her reasons sound pretty good. Go to the meetings and don't make any apologies. It isn't necessary.

Dear Ann: We're in a tough spot. My boy friend and I are both 17 and seniors. Don't tell us we should've known better. We know it. What we need now is advice.

My boy friend bought a Model A Ford for $200. He was bragging that his old Model A could get in and out of spots that the fancy low slung jobs could never make. He wanted to prove it, so another couple joined us for the experiment. We drove out to the country and tried to ride through a cornfield. We got stuck. It was about 12:30 A.M.

We walked to the farmer's house and woke them up so I could phone Dad to come and get us. It was 1:30.

Dad had to drive out 30 miles. The farmer met him on the highway so he'd be sure to get on the right side road. He gave the farmer $5 for his trouble and we got holy heck.

Our parents got together and decided none of us can go out for three weeks. This means we'll have to miss the biggest school party of the year. Don't you think this is pretty stiff punishment? — IMPRISONED FOUR

Dear Four: I would have made it tougher. You're seeing this from YOUR side, which is natural, but put yourself in
