Powers-Winters Vows Read
At First Lutheran Church

In a mid-afternoon ceremony last Saturday at the First Lutheran Church, Miss Dorothy Jean Powers became the bride of Robert C. Winters, Jr. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Powers, 16835 Crenshaw Blvd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Winters, 16821 Yukon Ave.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She was lovely in her Alfred Angelo original wedding gown of peau de soie and reem-broidered French alencon lace. The gown was studded with clusters of seed pearls and was detailed with a butterfly bustle back, a scalloped neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Her illusion veil cascaded from a flat lace cap of lace and peau de soie. The bridal bouquet was made of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

green satin and carried pink carnations.

Larry D. Winters performed the duties of best man for his brother. Ushers were Bernie Fagot and Edward J. Powers, Jr.

Accompanied by Roy Dolbrick at the organ, Miss Wanita Whitecotton sang "I Love You Truly."

The Rev. William Rolerod officiated at the vow exchange. A reception followed at the church and Miss Doris Damsky was in charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds are on a honeymoon in Las Vegas. Their new home will be in Inglewood.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Winters were graduated from North High school in June 1959.

Island Style Shows Slated

Fashions from Hawaii that have seen little wear since Honolulu can now come off the hanger.

For the exotic colors and floral prints that are synonymous with the Islands will soon be in perfect South Bayan style—at least once every week.

So announces The Polynesian Restaurant in Torrance, which will hold a "Muuumu Night" every Tuesday, beginning Feb. 2, reviving an incentive for mid-lady to again display her own island collection.

Champagne prizes will be awarded women wearing the most interesting muumuus, holamuis, teatimers and every other category of native fashion.

"Muuumu Night" also at-fords local belles the opportunity to re-live their Hawaiian holiday with nostalgic affection—helped immeasurably by those flowing, floor-length, scoop-necked dresses.

Sisterhood Variety Show Set for Late February

The Menorschcapades, second annual variety show to be presented by Temple Menorah will be held at the Little Theatre at El Camino College the last week of February, according to Jan Darien, director. Originally set for an earlier date, the production was postponed two weeks by the Temple Sisterhood, sponsors of the variety show.

Rehearsals of the cast and chorus got under way last week, Darien stated. Named as director of choreography was Mrs. Morton Canter, who formerly danced with the late Makhalil Mordkin, partner of the late Pavlova, in Philadelphia in the original Balle Russe de Monte Carlo.

A one-time member of the Philadelphia La Scala Opera Co., Mrs. Canter also danced under the direction of Ethel Phillips and with Ruth St. Denis. She appeared at the old Hippodrome in New York City, on the famed Steel Pier in Atlantic City, N.J., and did choreography for the Order of the Golden Chain in Rhode Island, Conn., New York, Maryland, and Delaware.

In addition to her success as a dancer and choreographer, Mrs. Canter also earned a reputation as one of the leading interior decorators in the East before coming to this area. As head buyer and decorator for a large Eastern department store chain she decorated the homes of many prominent statesmen in Washington, D.C., and executed the decoration of the Montgomery County chapel in Silver Springs, Md.
