

Big Attendance Expected for Dinner Meeting

A large number of the members of the Executives' Dinner Club of the Torrance area are expected to be present at the next meeting of the organization, Saturday night, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 6, 1960 at the Jump 'N Jack Restaurant when Judge Harold C. Kessinger, speaker, wit, humorist, and genial philosopher, will be the guest of honor.

He has the droll humor of Will Rogers and he has the manner and appearance of Wendell Wilkie. His genial personality and brilliant speech have captivated scores of audiences throughout the United States. His lectures have been briefly summarized as "common sense dramatized."

In addition to his ability to administer justice, the Judge has been successful as editor, publisher, business executive, and educator.

Judge Kessinger was born in southern Illinois of Scotch, French, German and Irish descent. He was reared a Quaker and was educated for the law at Blackburn College, Northwestern University and the University of Chicago.

On July 1, 1947, Kessinger completed a successful term as governor of the 182nd District of Rotary International. During the period he officiated in this capacity, he addressed leading groups from coast to coast. The New York Rotary reported, "Kessinger is a truly great humorist and philosopher... was received with thunderous applause."

Local Adventists to Begin New Cancer Society Study Tomorrow

Thousands of questionnaires were mailed from Seventh-day Adventist headquarters Friday to 51 Southland Adventist churches in the first phase of a special Adventist contribution to the nation-wide epidemiology study now under way by the American Cancer Society.

The questionnaires are going to volunteer leaders in Adventist churches in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties of 100 or more members who will implement the study among all members of 30 years or older in their churches.

Beginning date of the study is Feb. 1.

Clarence C. Kott, Glendale, health services director of the Adventists' Southern California Conference, said the reason for the special study among California Adventists is to determine whether health practices and living habits of Seventh-day Adventists, which differ in some instances from members of most other religious groups, affects cancer incidence.

KOTT SAID some 10,000 questionnaires are being sent Adventists in the three Southland counties comprising the church's Southern California Conference. Throughout California some 70,000 Adventists will participate in the study.

"Seventh-day Adventists as a rule of faith neither drink alcoholic beverages or use tobacco in any form including cigarettes," Kott said. "These facts will be noted in this study along with all other living habits of those participating to determine if differences noted are significant in terms of cancer incidence."

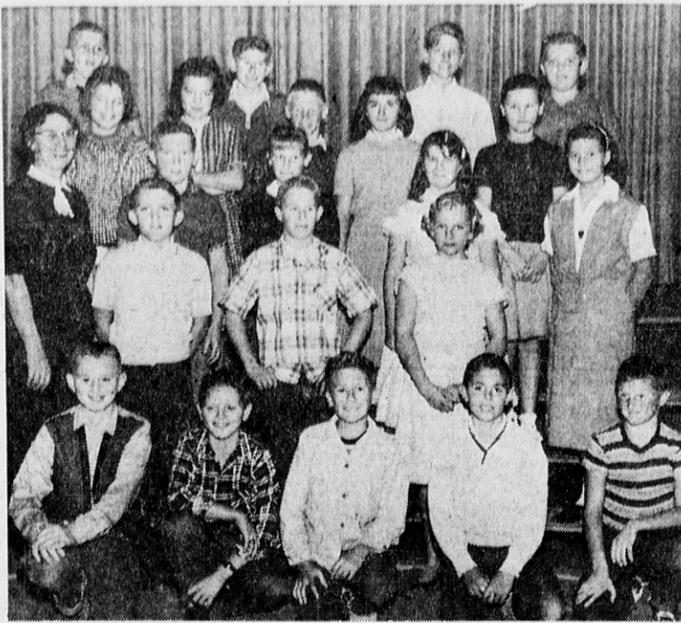

THE OFFICIAL pointed out that California Adventists have not and are not participating in the broad, nation-wide survey already under way because ACS officials asked that the special study on California members of the church be conducted separately.

A recent report from the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research indicated that a study of Seventh-day Adventists revealed male members of the church are 90 times less likely to get lung cancer than other men.
