

California Publishers Meeting To Hold 72nd Annual Convention

More than 900 publishers, editors, and their spouses from California, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon, and Hawaii are gathering this week for the California Newspaper Publishers Assn. 72nd annual convention at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Los Angeles.

The record-breaking attendance will hear addresses by Vice President Richard M. Nixon at the installation luncheon Saturday and by Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown at the traditional "Family Night" dinner Friday, according to CNPA President Carroll W. Pacher, Glendale News Press.

GOVERNOR AND Mrs. Brown will be joined by the other state constitutional officers and their wives, Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Glenn M. Anderson, Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank M. Jordan, State Controller and Mrs. Alan Cranston, State Treasurer and Mrs. Bert A. Betts, Attorney General and Mrs. Stanley Mosk, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy E. Simpson.

Other speakers are Kenneth C. McGuiness, President Eisenhower's liaison with Congress in formulation of the 1959 labor legislation; Cranston Williams, general manager, American Newspaper Publishers Association; J. Leonard Reinsch, board of directors, Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., and general manager of the 1960 Democratic National Convention here in July; and Turner Catledge, managing editor, New York Times, who addresses the annual Associated Press Dinner tonight.

ANOTHER HIGHLIGHT will be the historic awards breakfast Saturday when Governor Brown will present 53 trophies to California newspapers for journalistic excellence. A best youth coverage award and an out-of-state general excellence trophy will be presented for the first time.

Special gold card awards will be made to the following veteran California publishers: Ford A. Chatters, Lindsay Gazette; Justus F. Craemer, San Rafael Independent Journal; Homer D. King, Hemet News; Joseph R. Knowland, Oakland Tribune; Walter Mendenhall, Van Nuys News; and Thomas M. Storke, Santa Barbara News Press.

Working sessions of the 72nd convention will include roundtable discussions for newspapers of various sizes and categories on Friday; annual election of officers Saturday; an industrial relations meeting Thursday, according to the convention general chairman, Harlan Palmer Jr., Hollywood Citizen News, and CNPA General Manager John B. Long.

Current Design Examples Shown

Outstanding examples of design in the residential and light commercial building field are currently being displayed in Los Angeles in a special exposition of work performed by members of the American Institute of Building Design.

The exhibit, representing works completed in various areas throughout the West, is being sponsored by the Institute's Los Angeles Chapter, and includes work by members of the local chapter and from other areas.

The display is installed in the lobby of the Havenstrite Oil building at 811 West 7th St., and is being viewed by some 1500 people daily, according to Institute officers.

Constructed for the AIBD by the Southern California Gas Co., the display will be used as a portable "show-case" in future Institute functions when it leaves current location.

In all, the display of photography and rendering is housed in 18 glass showcases and is part of a continuing program instituted by the management of the Havenstrite building to exhibit a new presentation of fine arts in various forms in the lobby.
