BEST BUYS FOR THE WEEK

In Torrance Markets

There is magic in a few warm days. Imperial Valley is sending in a little asparagus . . . expensive? Yes. But it's a sign of things to come. And lettuce perked up immediately. Beautiful salad greens are back in our markets, and prices have dropped away down.

Along with the usual winter vegetables you can find many different foods to tempt the appetites: Anise, Artichokes, Dandelions, French Endive, Escarole, Mushrooms, Collards, Celery Root, Leeks, Kohlrabi, Mustard, and China Peas. Not in all markets, but worth hunting for.

Anise (fennel, or finocchio) may be served raw . . . like celery . . . or cut into 1-inch slices and cooked tender in boiling, salted water. Serve hot, dressed with melted butter and lemon juice.

Dandelions, of course, may be served as a green salad. They are very "positive" and beginners may want to add a little dandelion to mixed greens.

French Endive is brought to us by air from Belgium. A luxury item. China Peas. Some people call these "unborn" peas, or "lazy housewife" peas. They are a variety which produces tender pods to prepare whole . . . peas in pod. They are washed, the ends snipped off and any strings removed, just as green beans are prepared. Cook quickly in a small amount of boiling salted water. Season with butter. Chinese cooks prepare these peas with bits of pork.

In abundance you'll find: Cabbage, Carrots, Cauliflower, Celery, Lettuce, Onions, Potatoes, Sweet Potatoes and Yams, Winter Squash, Apples, Avocados, Grapefruit, Oranges, Pears. Not abundant . . . but for a change:

Cantaloups, Papayas, Pineapples, Strawberries, Watermelons.

PROTEIN FOODS
Lamb continues to hold its position on the shopper's market list, while beef and pork are doing a little postling. The "experts" say that pork has been sliding up at wholesale, but that retailers have not reflected the advance in price. Beef prices have held fairly steady, although there are indications that they may drop a little. All in all, shoppers in this area have a wide choice in the meat departments, with lamb usually holding an edge on lower prices.

Poultry . . . without it many budgets couldn't work. It is the number one food in the meat department at your market.
