'Movie Star' Cuts Ribbon As New Food Market Opens

A new Torrance supermarket had its opening last week with all the fanfare that usually accompanies such events, despite the fact that the market serves only one room at Casimir Elementary School.

After a "movie star" cut the ribbon opening the market in Mrs. Mae Woodruff's second grade room, each member of the class explained some phase of market operation. There was singing of class-made songs and free samples of cake, baked by the teacher.

All the fanfare, for several other school classes, was to climax a unit of class study of the market. This is part of the social studies work on the community.

AFTER STORE Manager Pamela Wilson, chosen by vote of the class, explained the functions of the store, an official ribbon cutting ceremony was held with Kathleen Keenan, a "movie star" complete with fur and floppy hat, doing the snipping.

Scott Hansen told about the various types of trucks which bring food to the market and each class member described some phase of the operation.

THE CHILDREN'S Food Market was built entirely by the youngsters, including the vegetables. Youngsters obtained boxes, cans, and bottles at home and created vegetables and meat from paper mache.

Youngsters will learn their arithmetic lessons through making change and buying items in the store. They will learn how much of what food to buy and why. They will learn to budget their grocery "money."

Sheriff's Posse Sets Horse Show

Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess yesterday announced that the new Sheriff's Mounted Posse No. 3, from Lennox Stations, will hold its first annual All Junior Horse Show at the Empty Saddle Club grounds in Rolling Hills on Sunday, March 6, at 8:30 a.m.

The show is open to all children 18 years and under, according to Posse Captain Jack Hesnault, and several classes of competition will be featured to accommodate all riders.

Featured in the competition will be Jumping and Hunt classes and a wide range of events for the more experienced English and Western Junior Horsemen.

Sheriff Pitchess stated that the Lennox Posse, a newly-formed unit of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, is sponsoring the horse show as part of a program to encourage junior horsemanship, and to acquaint the children and their parents with the Posse and its members.

Tartar Teen Talk

By CHERRIE LACY

Tuesday was a busy day for Torrance High School. An Aud Call was held during second period featuring Alice and Harold Allen. It was entitled "Sounds of the Air" and showed, in a variety of skits, how many realistic sounds are created in the leading radio and TV shows, as well as in motion pictures and animated cartoons.

During the last half of lunch, a pep rally was held in the Sunken Gardens. The cheer leaders led the Tartars in a few yells and a number was played by the band. A short talk was given by Howard Taylor, captain, in behalf of the basketball team. Coach Boergor and Coach Ogle also gave short talks. The purpose of the rally was to encourage spirit for the afternoon basketball game with South High School.

High, on South's courts. Although they put up a good fight, they were defeated in the fourth quarter with a score of 56-53.

In the Pioneer League meet, Torrance High School Wrestling team won by a large margin with eight first places, one second place, one third place, and one fourth place. On Saturday they went to the CIF Wrestling Preliminaries. Coach Hoag said that every one of the boys entered could reach the top.

The plays of Earl Newsom, Verne Newsom, Barbara Adams, and Linda Kraegel have been chosen for production in this year's One Act Play Festival.

Aeronca Postpones Final Rites; Grows to Become Pioneer in Air

Aeronca Manufacturing Corp. of Middletown, Ohio, "a pioneer and leader in the fabrication of high-temperature air vehicle structures," feels justly proud of the position which it has achieved in the aircraft industry in the past few years. Founded in Cincinnati in 1928 as the Aeronautical Corp. of America, by a group of local businessmen impressed with the possibilities of personal aviation, it established its manufacturing facilities at Lunken Field. The early personal airplane, the "Flying Bathub," the "Collegian," the "Champion" and later models achieved world-wide acceptance. Periodic flooding of Lunken by the Ohio River forced the company to move to Middletown in 1940.

WORLD WAR II found Aeronca at Middletown converted exclusively to defense production. The O-58, L-3, PT-19, PT-23, gliders and other aircraft and equipment told the story. Quality, low-cost, and on-time delivery schedules brought two Army and Navy "E's" for excellence to Aeronca. And for Korea, Aeronca produced the Army L-16, the bazooka and other essential defense hardware.

A little over 10 years ago, John A. Lawler came from Curtiss-Wright to Aeronca to conduct Aeronca's funeral for a committee of the creditors. The funeral was never held. John Lawler, through leadership, vision, hard work, and his own personality accepted the presidency of Aeronca and put it on its feet.

design product, on schedule, at a reasonable cost. The Aeronca Division of Aeronca established in early 1959, has been organized from the Aeronca-California Corp., purchased in July 1958, using part of the facilities of the Pastushin Aviation Corp. at 5651 W. Century Blvd. in Los Angeles. This plant is engaged in the production of fuel wing tanks and pylons for the Boeing B-52G "Missile Platform" jet bomber.

THIS DIVISION'S largest unit is the former Longren Aircraft Co., Inc., of Torrance with three modern plants engaged in the manufacture of air vehicle and missile structures and in research and development of process techniques in advanced metals fabrication.

Headed by George M. Ebert, as vice president and general manager, this division recently has been commended by the Wichita Division of Boeing Airplane Co. for its excellence and timeliness in production. The Aerospace Division at Baltimore, Md., was organized in August 1959 from the former Industrial Research Laboratories purchased by Aeronca in 1954. It is now concentrating on creative studies in space technology and weapons while continuing the development of electronic devices and equipment including a complete line of digital data systems marketed under the trademark "Aeronca Digidac."

THESE SYSTEMS and devices are essentially for use in the missile and high speed aircraft fields and are finding quick acceptance in the industry.
