Doris Popovich Exchanges Vows With D. L. Gustafson on March 5

Baskets of white gladioli, carnations and stock interspersed with lighted cathedral candles decorated the chancel of the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church last Saturday afternoon for the four o'clock wedding ceremony uniting Miss Doris Popovich and Daryl LeRoy Gustafson. Bouquets of white blossoms tied with white satin bows and streamers marked the bridal path down the center aisle of the church.

As the 122 wedding guests assembled, Robert Edborg of Long Beach, played a background of nuptial music and accompanied Lloyd Jones who sang "Yours is My Heart Alone" and "O Perfect Love."

At the first chords of the wedding march from Lohengrin, the radiant bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Popovich, 2067 Carson St., entered the church on the arm of her father. She was beautiful in her princess wedding gown of peau de soie fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice above the empire waistline accented with a satin bow. The gown had long lace sleeves and a scalloped portrait neckline. The full skirt fell into a chapel train. The fingertip veil of English silk illusion was secured by a close fitting cap of lace over peau de soie. The bride carried a cascade of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Violet Popovich served as her sister's maid of honor. She was gowned in mint green chiffon over taffeta. On her head was a mint green bow studded with pearls. Her bouquet was of white tulips on a background of needlepoint ivy.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Barbara Head of Westwood, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn Merkel of Fresno. They were in mint green chiffon and their bouquets were of white iris on needlepoint ivy. The bridegroom asked John Ryan of Glendale, a fraternity brother, to perform the duties of best man. Serving as ushers were Vladimir Popovich and Richard Head.

The Rev. Hugh Percy, pastor, officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony.

Following the wedding, a reception and dinner was held in the Crystal Room at the Palms restaurant. After the guests greeted the newlyweds in a receiving line, a cocktail hour was held followed by dinner. Ken Perkins' orchestra furnished music during the dinner hour and played for dancing.

Yovan Popovich, brother of the bride, was master of ceremonies at the wedding reception.

Seated at the bridal table with members of the bridal party and the parents were Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Percy. This table was decorated with white gladioli, stock and carnations flanked by white candles in silver holders. Other tables were decorated in white and mint green carrying out the bride's colors. The four tiered wedding cake was encircled by fern and white carnations.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Gustafson are now on a honeymoon in Carmel. Their new home will be in Santa Monica.

The bride was born and reared in Torrance. She was graduated from the local high school and attended UCLA where she majored in secondary education. She is employed in the office of the vice-president of Finance at the University.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gustafson, Kingsburg, Calif., was graduated from the Kingsburg High school and UCLA in 1957 with a business administration major. He is now employed as Industrial Development Representative with the General Telephone Co. in the Santa Monica office.

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"Tell Me Before I Blow My Stack . . ."

Dear Ann Landers: I told my husband last night the next time he comes through the front door with two or three extra people for dinner (surprise of course) I am going out the back door. I'd never actually do it, but how can I get him to give me at least an hour's notice?

I'm a fairly good cook, but I'm no magician. Men just don't understand that extra people mean extra preparations. More than once the kids have had to eat peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and the guests got the chops. Please tell me what to do about this before I blow my top. — CAUGHT SHORT

Dear Caught: Tell your husband that either he brings home (with the guests) some extra steaks or he'll have to settle for whatever there is. Maybe after a few attempts at cutting lamb chops in half and dividing eight spears of asparagus six ways, he'll learn that you mean business.

For obvious reasons I'm avoiding the suggestion that you keep frozen meat on hand for "emergencies."

Dear Ann: Please print this letter for teenage girls who are having trouble with their mothers. I'm 14 and have solved one of life's biggest problems. Mom and I were forever arguing. No matter what she said I had a smart come-back. We never agreed on anything.

The na girl moved to our block from another city. We got along swell from the start. She invited me to her house for the night and that's when my eyes were opened.

This girl and her mother had the loveliest relationship I ever saw. They were polite and considerate to each other — not like relatives, but friends. I couldn't help but tell her I thought it was wonderful that
