Roast Duck Heads List at Pen & Quill

While the tempting menu at The Pen and Quill in Manhattan Beach is met daily with enthusiastic approval by restaurant-goers, three dinner specialties have become the top favorites for 1960 reports owner Bob Reuben, who took a poll of entrees served during the first six months of this year.

Roast Long Island Duckling and Tenderloin of Beef Stroganoff are the dinner-time favorites, the poll revealed, sharing equal popularity with the pridefully menued Roast Prime Rib of Beef au Jus.

SAFETY REMINDER... The high cost of traffic accidents is pointed out here by George Watts (left), director of traffic safety for the Los Angeles Chapter of the National Safety Council, while George Kurtz, chairman of the city's Traffic Safety Council, looks on. Craig Retires After 38 Years at National Supply

Robert W. Craig has retired after more than 38 years of world-wide service for The National Supply Company.

In his capacity as a sales engineer for the company's Torrance, California, plant, or on special assignments for the sales department, he visited oil fields in virtually every part of the world, advising on the operation of National rigs in service there.

Mr. Craig's first service for the company was in Canada. Later he became a familiar figure in the Gulf Coast and Mid-Continent fields. Eventually his travels took him to such places as Australia, India, the Middle East, Japan, Formosa, and Central and South America.
