

Free World Cartoonists Sending Best Work for World Forum Here

Scores of cartoons depicting world affairs — "The World Today-Tomorrow" by many of the world's top artists are pouring into the International Editorial Cartoonist Competition of the first annual World Newspaper Forum, Oct. 13-14. Rushing to beat the Sept. 15 midnight deadline at the Los Angeles headquarters office of the sponsoring California Newspaper Publishers Assn. are prominent newspaper cartoonists from seven regions of the free world—United States, Canada, Latin America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia.

THE CARTOONIST contest is officially endorsed by the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, Washington, D.C. It is a featured highlight of the World Newspaper Forum, which will kick off the 1960 National Newspaper Week observance, Oct. 15-22, founded 21 years ago by John B. Long, veteran CNPA general manager.

World Newspaper Forum, to be held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, is designed to be an annual sounding board for key world leaders to inform, to analyze and to predict the future of the world in the fields of communications, government, economics, education, science, industry and finance.

MORE THAN 1000 newspaper publishers and editors expected to attend the forum will have an opportunity to bring expert reports of world conditions directly to the readers of their hometown weekly and daily newspapers throughout the United States and the World.

Both the Republican and Democratic party nominees have been invited through their respective national committees to give major political addresses at the forum, timed just three weeks prior to the Nov. 8 presidential election.

CHAIRMAN of the World Newspaper Forum is Bert Stolpe, published of Azusa Herald and Glendora Press and formerly with the Des Moines (Iowa) Register and Tribune. Charles W. Horn, assistant publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner, is chairman of the International Editorial Cartoonist Competition committee.

The competition judges will select first, second and third winners in each of the seven regions. The $1000 Grand International Award winner will be chosen from the $100 regional first place contenders. Besides the cash prizes the Grand winner will receive an elaborate cup and the regional
