

Coffee Accepts King Challenge To Debate Local Election Issues

Tom Coffee, Republican Congressional candidate for the 17th District, has accepted a challenge to debate the issues of the day with Cecil King, Democrat candidate for the same office.

Coffee agreed to the debate after King had released his challenge to several newspapers in the area.

In a letter to King, Coffee listed six cities in which he would be willing to debate. They are Inglewood, Torrance, San Pedro, Hawthorne, Redondo Beach, and Westchester.

IN HIS letter of acceptance Coffee also named six subjects which could be covered. They are taxation, spending, foreign policy, labor, private enterprise, and communism.

"I have studied the record and I think a debate is an excellent opportunity to learn why my opponent's voting record does not conform to the interests of the voters in the 17th Congressional District," said Coffee.

"I THINK the voters in the 17th District have to know why King has continually voted 'Yes' for bills which increase government spending, raise taxes and increase inflation. On the other hand he voted 'No' on legislation to lower taxes and remove governmental controls stifling the small business man."

"This challenge for debate shows me one thing," said Coffee. "My opponent, up recently, has taken the voters of the 17th Congressional District for granted. He obviously is concerned over the strides being made by the Democrats and Republicans for Coffee committees."

IN HIS LETTER, Coffee went further to solidify arrangements for the debate. He offered to meet King in any newspaper office in the area where details for the debate could be agreed upon.

Arrangements for the dates and meeting place are items to be discussed before an unbiased newspaper publisher. Coffee prefers to make arrangements for the debate in an office of a newspaper because, "they are widely known for having a sense of fair play."

Sincere in his acceptance, Coffee further agreed to a series of debates rather than only one. He said, "During the month of October three debates could be arranged. This would give voters all over the 17th Congressional District an opportunity to judge King's voting record for themselves."

Working Mothers Leave Void in Home, District Attorney Claims

Mothers who work even though their husbands also hold jobs may be leaving a void in the family circle that harmfully affects American homelife, District Attorney William B. McKesson said today.

"I do not criticize mothers who work," he emphasized. "I do call attention to a situation that is affecting American Homelife. As a judge who spent 12 years hearing cases, reading reports and meeting with groups of parents and youths I have seen the longing hunger in the eyes of boys and girls who felt they were neglected or rejected at home," McKesson said.

"MOTHERS have confessed that they went to work, not because of necessity but so that they could make the payments on a new car, a bigger house, more luxuries and tearfully realize that the price of the new house, car or other gadget was too high if it meant losing their boy or girl." McKesson angrily dismissed complaints that the youth of today "are going to the dogs."

HE SAID he had a deeper faith in America today than ever before. "I have that faith because of the kind of boys and girls we are raising in this jet propelled, H-bomb, satellite era and not in spite of them."

The District Attorney said his experience during 12 years as a Juvenile Court and on the California Youth Authority had shown him 97 percent of America's youth "never came in contact with law enforcement agencies, engage in antisocial activities, or bring shame upon themselves and their families."

HE SAID today's youth are "alert, intelligent, ambitious and self-reliant."

In explaining there was no substitute for parental love and care of offspring, McKesson said the youngsters appearing in court "are there because of what some adult did, or failed to do for them."
